THREE FOUNDATIONAL SERVICES OF MARYLAND TO THE AMERICAN SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT.

ADDRESS OF DECOURCY W. THOM ON FEBRUARY 13, 1928, AT A MEETING OF THE MARYLAND HISTORICAL SOCIETY, AT ITS HOME, 201 W. MONUMENT STREET, BALTIMORE, MD.

History records the persistent effort of group after group of mankind to make this, that, or the other progressive step in the march of civilization. Nearly always one person led in that advance. But occasionally more than one individual has led the van. For example, Darwin and Wallace simultaneously announced the origin of species and Newton and Horrocks worked out separately but at the same time the mathematical truths about gravitation, and so on, and so on. Thus did civilization strain forward until it attained unto the form and the populations and the developments and the problems that were extant in the early part of the seventeenth century. Most countries in the civilized world were then seething forward with development. Modernness had begun to reign. In our mother country, Great Britain, the chiefest evidence of that modernness was a fierce and underlying yearning for individual Christian liberty. All factions desired a National Church. The question was, should that Church be Roman, Anglican or Puritan; should it be governed by Bishops or by Presbyters; were the theological doctrines of Trent, of Augsburg or of Geneva to rule in Great Britain? For the religious compromise of Elizabethan days, with its "Act of Supremacy," its "Act of Uniformity" and its "Thirty-nine Articles," had lost general favor and irked the zealous adherents of Rome or of Geneva. The Church of Rome was firm as crystal in its tenets, and the Genevans—the Presbyterian Church—were equally set in its doctrinal beliefs. In the swing and sway of the popular mind throughout the past few reigns—through the sometimes barbarous though mainly statesmanlike handling of religious questions under the great Elizabeth—through Mary's doings—through the tolerant protestantism of James and the narrowness of Charles—through the flux of all those troublous times—there remained steadfast, militant, girding for the fray, the two opposing absolutisms—the Roman and the Genevan, which latter became in England the Puritan. Now, the Roman party was united. The Puritan consisted:—

First, of the Evangelical Churchmen, or Conforming Puritans, who accepted Episcopacy, but not the "right divine" of kings:

Secondly, of the Presbyterian, demanding exclusive ascendency, and that the National Cuurch be modeled precisely as John Calvin's Commentaries set forth; and the Presbyterian Church asserted its "right divine" no less stoutly than the Stuart kings asserted theirs:

Thirdly, of the Independents or Congregationalists, destined, because of their votary Cromwell, their victories in battle and their individuality, congregation by congregation, to predominate in the Puritan triumph.

The Anglican party became submerged after a concentrated effort to subjugate the Calvanistic spirit in the Reformed Church of England, or, as Archbishop Laud put it, "to have recognized the Divine Origin and rights of Episcopacy, the Apostolic succession, the necessity of a visible Church, the doctrine of sacramental grace and the propriety of order, decency and reverence in Christian worship."

In the fierce struggle of the creeds the Roman lost first to Puritan; whereupon the Independents, led by the mighty Cromwell and asserting individualism as contrasted with the "right divine" of Presbyterianism, became the triumphant faction of the triumphant Puritans. All England was distraught. Sweet kindliness from man to man was banished, because of doctrinal differences. Though the gentle Founder of Christianity had belonged to no denomination, and preached such broad and inclusive doctrine as the Sermon on the Mount, the Christians of England, in the days of Charles the First, grew to slaughter one another, because of petty differences in religious views. What a revolting spectacle to the thoughtful student of modern times! It tinctured the political troubles under James I and Charles I, which may be said roughly to have resolved themselves into the various phases of the efforts of those kings for absolutism in opposition to the struggle of noble Englishmen to preserve the glorious precedents which, broadening slowly down, had come to make the English Constitution the freest then extant.

Such were the times—restless, bitter, furious, intolerant. Was there no refuge from such a welter? Did the lands beyond the seas offer no forgetfulness? Nay, they called for active spirits to subdue them; Peace for the troubled conscience, Refuge from warring friends, Rest for the tired worker in old questions, and Dynamic work for one's family, for one's native land, and for the race, lay yonder beyond the broad Atlantic main. So, it seems to me, must have called the opportunities of this Continent, especially to the two earlier Calverts.

Sir George Calvert, trained man of affairs, ex-Secretary of State, of an adventurous turn of mind, one who had been a convinced Protestant, and had become an equally convinced Romanist, undismayed by his disastrous failure in trying to settle his grant of Avalon, in Newfoundland, determined to found a colony, which came to be called Maryland. He there designed tolerance of all Christian religions; he designed for himself abstraction and interest in founding here an enterprise far removed from the wrangling of his old associates; he designed here to nurse the fortunes of his family; but, above all, he, the veteran statesman, designed to establish so far as might be the Utopian settlement dreamed of by the good and great Sir Thomas More, where separation of Church and State, freedom of religious worship according to any Christian form, and manhood suffrage could be practiced. Sir George Calvert, created Lord Baltimore in 1624, died two months before the Charter of Maryland passed the Great Seal, and it was granted to his eldest son Cecilius, second Lord Baltimore, who was fully sympathetic with all his father's plans and "trod in his paths." Upon both their minds had shone the Utopian views of the great Chancellor Sir Thomas More, through the curious happening, that his great-grandson, Father Henry More, who, like all the Chancellor's descendants, venerated all his views, was the close comrade of the first Lord Baltimore when Secretary of State, and, it is believed, both his chaplain in his retirement and the tutor of his son Cecilius. Under all these ameliorating influences, then, did Cecilius, second Lord Baltimore, calm and statesmanlike and steady and of sturdy businesslike disposition, take up the task of settling his Palatinate of Maryland. Tolerance, Peace, Success were the main motives actuating him. Charles the First, who granted the charter, was a Protestant, Cecilius Calvert was a Romanist. The charter called for freedom of religious worship according to any Christian form. Cecilius Calvert's letter of instructions to the little band of two hundred colonists in the Ark and the Dove inculcated that same tolerance in religion; and that one hundred and twenty-eight of the two hundred colonists took the oath of "allegiance," just prior to embarking, proves that number to have been Protestants; and as the other seventy-two are not recorded as so declaring themselves, we may conclude that they were Romanists. These seventy-two, who had "forsaken the ship" prior to the administering of the oath of "allegiance," re-embarked at the Isle of Wight, but many others who had disbarked with them did not join the little squadron. Turn to Volume V, Archives of Maryland; Proceedings of the Council, 1667-1687, pp. 267-268, and read what testimony Charles, third Lord Baltimore, son of Cecilius, and from 1661 till 1675 resident Governor of Maryland, gave in writing in 1678 to the Lords of the Committee of Trade and Plantations as to the toleration exacted by the colonists before sailing, and explaining why it would be dangerous to scrutinize the religious complexion of the colonists in Maryland and asserting that making exhaustive scrutinies "would certaynly either endanger Insurrections or a General Dis-peopleing of the Provynce, which is at present in great peace and Quiett, all persons there being secured to their content, for a quiett enjoyment of everything that they cann Reasonably desyne. The Reason why such scrutinyes would be thus Dangerous, is that vizt, That at the first planteing of this Provynce by my ffather, Albeit he had an absolute Liberty given him and his heirs to carry thither any Persons out of any of the Dominions that belonged to the Crowne of England who should be found wylling to goe thither, yett when he came to make use of this Liberty, He found very few who were inclyned to goe and seat themselves in those parts. But such as for some Reason or other could not lyve with ease in other places. And of these a great parte, were such as could not conforme in all particulars to the severall Lawes of England relateing to Religion; many they were of this sort of People who declared their Wyllingness to goe and plant themselves in this Provynce, soe as they might have a Generall Toleraccon settled there by a Lawe by which all of all sorts who professed Christianity in Generall, might be at Liberty to worship God in such manner as was most agreeable with their respective Judgement and Consciences, without being subject to any penaltyes whatsoever, for their soe doeing, Provyded the Civill peace were preserved. And that for the securing the civill peace and preventing all heats Feuds, which were generally observed to happen, amongst such as differ in opynions upon Occasion of Reproachful Nicknames and Reflecting upon each other's Opynions, it might by the same Lawe be made Penall to give any offence of that kynde. These were the condicions proposed by such as were willing to goe and be the first planters of this Provynce, and without the complying with these condicions, in all probability, This Provynce had never beene planted. To these condicions, my ffather agreed, and accordingly soon after the first planteing of this Provynce, these conditions by the unanimous consent of all who were concerned, were passed into a Lawe and the inhabitants of this Provyance have found such effects from this Lawe and from the strict observance of it as well in relation to their Quiett as in Religion to the farther peopleing of this Provyance That they looke on it, as that whereon alone depends the preservation of their Peace Their Propertyes and their Libertyes. This beinge the true state of the case of this Provyance it is easy to Judge what consequencynes might ensue, upon any scrutinyes which should be made in order to the satisfyeing theis particular Inquiryes."

Plainly the Colony of Maryland was intended by its owner and the colonists to be "The Land of the Sanctuary," and not in any sense a polemical ground. Today the blessed recognition of the fact, that the spirit of belief, and not its formal expression, is the solemn need of every human soul has swept gloriously forward, but two and three-quarter centuries ago, that truism found affirmation in no country, save the little Colony of Maryland.

Cecilius Calvert, Second Lord Baltimore, and the first Colonists of Maryland thus first founded in what is now the United States, indeed, first founded in the English-speaking world, absolute freedom of religious worship in any Christian form. That is the first and unaccompanied foundational service rendered by Maryland to our American system of government. I make that assertion with full confidence, for, when it fell to me to write the following inscription for the base of the Cecilius Calvert statue which is standing upon the western steps of the Baltimore City Court House I submitted that inscription to such historians as William Hand Browne, Woodrow Wilson and others. They unanimously affirmed it. There, then, is inscribed the proud pronouncement:—

of Maryland and Avalon in America who on November 13th, 1633, with the co-operation and assent of the first Colonists proclaimed in England and on March 25th, 1634, established in the Palatinate of Maryland for the first time in the English speaking world Freedom of Religious Worship according to any Christian Form and separation of Church and State."

But in addition to this and then leading in Christendom Maryland was at the same time well forward in the van of the great world army pressing on towards that greatest earthly goal—Individual Christian Liberty constitutionally protected. And Cecilius Calvert and the first Colonists had Maryland proclaimed and practiced and enforced thorough separation of Church and State just as absolutely as that was proclaimed and practiced in a limited number of other governments. Here then is Maryland's second foundational service to the American system of government. Though not the absolute first leader here as she was in her first foundational national service, yet was she herein splendidly to the fore. But in her third great foundational service to our American system of government she alone led the way again. I refer to her leadership in demanding the fullest practicable recognition of the individual voter when the Colonies had become independent of Great Britain. Maryland had not forgotten the first of her great triumvirate of basic principles of government—the right of every free man to one vote. True, that after the year 1678, increasing population had obliged her to substitute representation for personal attendance of the voter in the Legislature to cast his vote. Such representation assumed various phases. They are interesting but we need not tax our limited time tonight with analyzing them. Let us rather examine precisely and illustratively when and how Maryland initiated the movement which became successful nationally in 1787 in impelling towards duly proportionate representation in State Legislatures and towards a specified balance of representation between Senate and House of Delegates in the normal American State.

Maryland would not join the American Confederacy until 1781, nor the United States until 1788. In those years, respectively, she had gained her two great demands in modern times, first that the Northwest Territory—that is, the lands lying north of the Ohio, east of the Mississippi, south of the Great Lakes and west of Pennsylvania, and from which have since been formed the following States, Ohio (in 1802), Indiana (in 1816), Illinois (in 1818), Michigan (in 1835), Wisconsin (in 1848), and Minnesota east of the Mississippi (in 1858)—should be treated as National property to be parcelled out by Congress into free, convenient and independent governments republican in form and in keeping with the spirit of the "Ordinance of 1787."

And the success of the second of those great modern demands of our gallant State is shown by Article 2 of the Ordinance of the Northwest Territory of 1787, as follows:—"The inhabitants of the said territory shall always be entitled to the benefits . . . of a proportionate representation of the people in the Legislature." This principle was put into effect in the first Constitution of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Those Constitutions required not only proportionate representation in the Legislature but specifically ordered that in the State Senate in Ohio, in Indiana, in Illinois, "the number of Senators . . . shall never be less than one-third nor more than one-half of the number of representatives" (in the lower House). See, respectively, Sec. 6, Art. I.; Sec. 6, Art. III, and Sec. 5, Art. II. And Michigan decreed ". . . the Senate shall, at all times, equal in number one third of the House of Representatives, as nearly as may be." See Sec. 2, Art. IV. And Wisconsin decreed, "The Senate shall consist of a number not more than one third nor less than one fourth of the number of the members of the Assembly" (the lower House). See Sec. 2, Art. IV. And to end the roll call Minnesota decreed, ". . . but the representation in the Senate shall never exceed one member for every 5000 inhabitants, and in the House of Representatives one member for every 2000 inhabitants, which is to say the Minnesota Senate was decreed to be 40% as large as the lower House.

The twin principle of proportionate representation so far as was practicable in swiftly growing States and of an upper House about one-third as large as the lower House, thus induced by Maryland, became the recognized American way to apply State by State that chiefest American principle of government, the rule of the qualified majority. That twin principle spread rapidly and blessedly. The United States of America are today forty-eight in number. In thirty of them the Senate is as nearly as is practicable one third or more as large as the lower House. In ten other States the Senate is one-half or more as large as is the lower House. Those thirty-eight States govern themselves in the characteristic American way. Many of those thirty-eight States were formed rather late in our history; but despite that handicap they contain (according to the last obtainable American census figures, those of 1920) 80,106,638 people; that is to say, 76% of the population of Continental America. And they paid in 1926 $1,693,455,297 income tax; that is to say, 78% of the total income tax paid in Continental America. And those same thirty-eight States contain ten of the thirteen largest American cities, namely, New York, Chicago, New Orleans, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Minneapolis, Detroit, Cleveland, St. Paul and Indianapolis. Those cities through the incidence of the principles of the Northwest Ordinance of 1787 forced on the American Nation by Maryland the Colony and Maryland the State, enjoy representation in their State Legislature as far as is practicable, in accordance with their percentage of the population of their respective States, whose Legislatures, as I have said, are composed of a Senate containing as far as is practicable one third to one half as many members as there are members in the lower House. Clearly that typical American system of city and county representation in their State Legislature has helped them. The helpful participation of these ten cities in upbuilding their various States on the above scale is important to consider from a national governmental standpoint because within different ones of those ten cities in those States live, first, a majority or a very large proportion of the population of their respective States, and, secondly, their aggregate population (see census of 1920) amounts to 12,512,314, which was almost 12% of the population of Continental America in that same year. Since then the cities of Continental America have grown to contain about 52% of its population. The remaining 48% live in the country. It is interesting to consider what is today the prevailing feeling of that city population compared with that of the country population concerning the constitutional wisdom of, say, the Eighteenth Amendment. But let us consider a few concrete Maryland illustrations from some official figures of the year 1926 as to lawyers and doctors and for the year 1923 as to industries:—

In Baltimore City live, say, 2000 lawyers, and in Maryland counties, say, 500.

In Baltimore City live, say, 1300 doctors and in Maryland counties, say, 1700.

In Baltimore City the out-turn of industrial business was $654,766,001, and in Maryland counties $248,880,221, most of which latter figure is related to industries contiguous to Baltimore City. To what proportion is that illustrative cross-section of Maryland's population assured voting influence in her legislative determination of what is best for Maryland? The assent of the Maryland Senate is requisite to adopt any Maryland law. The City of Baltimore, which contains more than half of the population of Maryland, has in the Senate only six votes out of twenty-nine. That choke point is constantly at work in restricting the full influence of such kind of matured experience as I have indicated. But the ten cities I have named are, by their various States in consequence of the "Ordinance of 1787" inaugurated through Maryland, allowed in due proportion to their population to help produce State laws. Their States are developing splendidly. Maryland started two hundred years before most of them, throve relatively while she practiced virtually the principles I have set forth in this paper, but coincident with the gradual abandonment of those principles has dwindled in comparison with such of those thirty-eight States practicing the methods of government I have indicated, and which have existed one-third or more as long as has Maryland,

I say, not only in population, and so in number of representatives in the National House of Representatives (we once had nine and now have but six), but also in general national power in conventions of the whole people. Maryland continues to be best located of all locations on tidewater in the United States to grow wealthiest and most populous through manufacturing, which is the normal way to such growths in a city. Some eighty years ago Maryland's choicest manufacturing location—Baltimore City—was more populous than the then city of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. But today Philadelphia numbers well over two million inhabitants and is the greatest manufacturing city within our national boundaries, while Baltimore City numbers little more than 800,000, inhabitants, and the whole population of Maryland is less than four-fifths of the population of Philadelphia. Maryland suffers thus because she will not utilize for herself the effective spirit of government which through her introduction has so greatly benefited each of the thirty-eight States I have indicated. The typical American system of city and county representation in their Legislatures which I have set forth in this paper smacks of the fact that the National Convention which in 1787 formed the Constitution of our country adopted in secret session by a vote of six States to five States the following resolution offered by Mr. Wilson of Pennsylvania in order to make the Senate of the United States as numerous as the House of Representatives:—" That the same proportion be observed in the election of the second house " (the U. S. Senate) " as the first " (the House of Representatives). That plan had to give way to having only two Senators from each State rather than have the smaller States remain outside of the Union. That submission was under the guise of the sovereignty of each State so to be represented and did not touch the case of any American county or city, neither of which is sovereign. However, the concession of two United States Senators to each State and the counting of three-fifths of the negro population in calculating the population of any State to be represented in the National House of Representatives, and the perpetual forbidding of slavery in the Northwest Territory, and the acceptance of Maryland's demands concerning the Northwest Territory, removed the four chief difficulties in forming our National Constitution. So adopted it was on September 17, 1787.

But was Maryland veritably the originator and causative agent in creating that great "Ordinance of 1787," and was that ordinance of vast importance?

Herbert B. Adams, who was professor of history in Johns Hopkins University, answers the first two of those questions in that "best of his papers," "Maryland's Influence Upon Land Cessions to the United States." He wrote on page 22 of that pamphlet:—"The first move that was ever made in Congress towards the assertion of national sovereignty over this western country was made by Maryland. On the 15th of October, 1777, exactly one month before the Articles of Confederation were proposed to the Legislatures for ratification, it was moved "that the United States in Congress assembled shall have the sole and exclusive right and power to ascertain and fix the western boundary of such States as claim to the Mississippi or South Sea, and lay out the land beyond the boundary, so ascertained, into separate and independent States, from time to time, as the numbers and circumstances of the people may require. Only Maryland voted in the affirmative." And on page 24:—"The credit of suggesting and successfully urging in Congress that policy which has made this country a great national commonwealth, composed of "free, convenient, and independent governments," bound together by ties of permanent territorial interests,—the credit of originating this policy belongs to Maryland, and to her alone." And here quoting from "The Instructions" of Maryland to her delegates which were read in Congress, May 21, 1779, and after the accession of Delaware . . . which left Maryland as the only colony that had not joined the Confederacy, again on page 26 Dr. Herbert B. Adams wrote:—

"We are convinced policy and justice require that a country unsettled at the commencement of this war, claimed by the British crown and ceded to it by the treaty of Paris, if wrested from the common enemy by the blood and treasure of the thirteen States, should be considered as a common property, subject to be parcelled out by Congress into free, convenient and independent governments, in such manner and at such time as the wisdom of that assembly shall hereafter direct. . . ." We have seen how Congress exercised its "wisdom" in constituting the Legislatures of the various States carved from the Northwest Territory dealt with in the abortive Ordinance of 1784 and in the one enacted in 1787. And, finally, Herbert B. Adams wrote on page 52 of that pamphlet:—"The Ordinance of 1787 is but the legal outcome of Maryland's successful policy in advocating national sovereignty over the western lands. The leading principles of this Ordinance are now recognized in all parts of our country, but those principles were long ago approved of by Maryland, although in a somewhat singular manner."

And it is Daniel Webster who in his speech in 1830 in reply to Hayne confirms to us the vast importance of that Ordinance of 1787, as follows:—

"We are accustomed to praise the lawgivers of antiquity; we help to perpetuate the fame of Solon and Lycurgus; but I doubt whether one single law of any lawgiver, ancient or modern, has produced effects of more distinct, marked and lasting character than the Ordinance of 1787. We see its consequences at this moment, and we shall never cease to see them, perhaps, while the Ohio shall flow."

[The reading of Mr. Thom's paper has revived the ancient dispute on religious toleration in Maryland and the motives which prompted it. It is certain that religious toleration was an accomplished fact in early Maryland, and it is immaterial whether the motive was founded on policy or religion. It is equally certain that after the Protestant Revolution and the establishment of the Church religious toleration departed the land for a century. It remained for the Revolution of 1776 to restore the civil and religious freedom of the Catholics; and fifty years later the disabilities of the Jews were removed by the act of 1825.—Editor.]

BERRY FAMILY OF CHARLES COUNTY.

Arthur L. Keith.

Probably all the Berrys of Charles County prior to 1800 are derived from and connected with Samuel Berry who first appears on the records of this county in 1690 and is called an old man in 1732 and died before 1753. There were other Berrys in Maryland as far back as 1652. The only Berry whose importation is shown prior to 1680 is that of William Berry, son of James Berry, whose importation is placed at 1652. He appears to have settled in Calvert County. Richard Preston of Calvert County in his will, Sept. 16, 1669, prob. Jan. 8, 1669/70, mentions his grandchildren William and James Berry. They probably belong to the William Berry of 1652. William Berry (grandson of Richard Preston) left issue who may be traced in Calvert, Prince George, and other counties. James Berry (grandson of Richard Preston) disappears from the records unless he is identical with the James Berry of St. Mary's County who in 1686 had recently married Anne, widow of Dr. John Wynne of Popular Hill St. Mary's County, whose will is dated Jan. 22, 1683/4, prob. March 10, 1684/5. I hope to prove in my forthcoming Cawood article that before she married Dr. John Wynne she had been the wife of Stephen Cawood of Charles County, who died in 1676. The significance of this point lies in the fact that the Berry family of Charles County and the Cawood (also the Smallwood) family were closely connected in the records.

The first Berry record found in Charles County is that of Sam Berry who brought suit against John Wilder, 1690 (Lib. R fol. 19). In 1697 William Hutchinson made deed to Humphrey Berry. So much we get from the index but Liber W (for 1697) to which the index refers has been lost, so no further information is to be had from that source. If he is identical with the Humphrey Berry (son of Samuel) he must have been very young at that time. No other Humphrey (unless this is an exception) aside from the son of Samuel has been found. On Oct. 2, 1704, Stephen Cawood (son of the Stephen Cawood who died in 1676, and about 1695 he returned from St. Mary's County) and wife Mary sold to Doctor Samuel Berry 100 acres, part of "Hull" (Lib. D No. 2, fol. 75). In March, 1713 Stephen Cawood and Samuel Berry sued James Maddox. Cause and issue not shown. In 1732 Samuel Berry petitioned to be levy-free. Petition was granted. He died before 1753 leaving no record of his death. In 1753 one Samuel Berry was the possessor of the 100 acres of "Hull," bought in 1704 of Stephen Cawood, but he was not the Samuel Berry who bought the land but the son of Humphrey Berry whose will probated in 1772 (see below) confirmed his son Samuel in the possession of this land. From this fact we may deduce Humphrey Berry as a son of Dr. Samuel Berry. Another Samuel Berry died in 1776 mentioning in his will his brother Humphrey's son Samuel, and sisters Elizabeth Berry and Ann Berry. These add other children to Dr. Samuel Berry. Also Sarah Roby of Charles County is described in 1734 as the daughter of Samuel Berry. I believe also that William Berry who died in Charles County in 1733 was another son. I shall speak of him later.

"Hull," patented for 600 acres by Stephen Cawood in 1675, lies in the Mattawoman River about three miles northwest of the village of Waldorf and about twenty miles south of Washington. It was bounded by early Smallwood tracts, and other Smallwood, Cawood, and Berry lands later were in the immediate vicinity. The writer visited the place in July, 1926, and "Hull' (it still goes by that name) is partly possessed today by men of the name Berry.

Dr. Samuel Berry (no clue has been found as to his wife's name) had the following children:

1. Humphrey Berry.
2. Samuel Berry.
3. Sarah Berry.
4. Elizabeth Berry (apparently died single).
5. Ann Berry (apparently died single).

and probably also

6. William Berry.

1. Humphrey Berry (son of Dr. Samuel) made will in Charles County, Sept. 19, 1770, prob. Jan. 22, 1772. Wife Ann is named extx. He leaves to son Samuel Berry "Mt. Paradise," part of "Hull," and "Berry;" to son Humphrey Berry he leaves "Smallwood's Plains;" to son Hezekiah Berry he leaves "Nutwell" and "Discord;" to son Benjamin Berry he leaves "Batchellor's Forest" and "Berry's Lott;" to son Joseph Berry he leaves one negro. Testator mentions daughter Martha Smallwood, son-in-law Samuel Smallwood, and granddaughter Letitia Smallwood. The will was witnessed by Samuel Hanson, Geo. Lee, and Matthew Moore, Jr. Humphrey Smallwood married 1. Mary Smallwood, daughter of Thomas Smallwood (see Maryland Historical Magazine, XXII, 151) and had two children:

7. Humphrey Berry (for his descendants see Maryland Historical Magazine, XXII, 171).
8. Thomas Berry (died without issue before 1779, probably before 1770, since his father's will of that date does not mention him).

Humphrey Berry married 2. Ann Lovejoy, daughter of Joseph Lovejoy of Prince George County. They had the following:

9. Samuel Berry.
10. Hezekiah Berry.

11. Benjamin Berry.
12. Joseph Berry.
13. Martha Berry (she married Samuel Smallwood. For her descendants see the Maryland Historical Magazine, XXII, 176).
14. John Berry, born about 1752 (not mentioned in his father's will).

2. Samuel Berry (son of Dr. Samuel) deposed on Aug. 2, 1774, in regard to "Berry's Hazzard" of Thomas Berry, that he was 56 years old. His birth may be set at about 1718. Before 1742 he had married Ann Thomas, daughter of Daniel Thomas. He made will in Charles County, Sept, 7. 1775, prob. March 18, 1776. He leaves to sister Elizabeth Berry 50 acres on Cool Spring Branch; mentions sister Ann Berry; cousin Samuel Berry, son of Humphrey Berry; Elizabeth Willett (relationship not shown); and son

15. Thomas Berry, "his only heir."

His will is witnessed by Ben Cawood, Jr., Thomas Smallwood, Jr., and Mary Cawood, wife of Benjamin Cawood.

3. Sarah Berry (daughter of Dr. Samuel) married before 1734 to ——— Roby. Their descendants have not been traced. Berry Robey appears in the 1790 census of Montgomery County. There was also a Berry Robey, Jr., who in the same county married Lucretia Barton, Aug. 19, 1801. These two Berry Robeys probably descend from the marriage of Sarah Berry and ——— Robey.

4. Elizabeth Berry (daughter of Dr. Samuel) made will in Charles County March 18, 1794, prob. April 7, 1794. She made bequest to nephew John Berry, his wife Elizabeth Berry, and their children William Berry and Mary Berry.

6. William Berry (probably son of Dr. Samuel) died about 1733. His account was presented in Charles County, Feb. 9, 1733 by his wife Esther Berry. No mention is made of children but here probably belongs one Esther Berry, born in Charles County in 1729, died in March, 1828 in Washington County, Virginia. She married Stephen Cawood, born Aug. 6, 1724 (son of John Cawood, son of Stephen, son of Stephen who died in 1676). They reared a large family of whom I shall treat in my Cawood article. Because of the close relations between the family of Dr. Samuel Berry and the Cawood family it seems almost certain that Esther Berry, born in 1729, was of that family. Among the many children of Stephen Cawood by his wife Esther Berry was one Berry Cawood who served in the Revolution under Gen. George Rogers Clark, and who was the ancestor of the Hon. C. Bascom Slemp of Virginia.

9. Samuel Berry (son of Humphrey, Sr.) had the following children as shown by the Piscataway Parish records:

16. Joseph Berry, born Aug. 7, 1751.
17. Samuel Berry, born Jan. 2, 1753.
18. Benjamin Berry, born Feb. 21, 1756.
19. Mary Ann Berry, born May 7, 1758.

10. Hepekiah Berry (son of Humphrey, Sr.) married and had the following children:

20. Hepburn S. Berry.
21. George M. Berry.

11. Benjamin Berry (son of Humphrey, Sr.) is probably identical with the Benjamin Berry who made will in Charles County, July 2, 1802, prob. Nov. 6, 1804. He mentions wife Chloe Berry, daughter Linder (Verlinde?), "my single daughters," and "all my children." The will is witnessed by Jacob Roby, Hezekiah Berry, and Jerom Osburn. (It is possible that the Benjamin of this will was not the son of Humphrey, Sr., but of Humphrey, Jr., or of Samuel, son of Humphrey, Sr).

14. John Berry (son of Humphrey, Sr.) is not mentioned in his father's will but must belong here for the reason that Elizabeth Berry (sister of Humphrey, Sr.) calls him her nephew, and Thomas Berry (son of Samuel, 1718-1776) in his will, dated Oct. 24, 1778, calls him "cousin John Berry, son of Humphrey Berry." The Prince George County census of 1776 gives the age of John Berry as 24, and makes him a neighbor of William Smallwood. John Berry was born, therefore, about 1752, married Elizabeth ———— (see will of Elizabeth Berry, above) and had:

22. William Berry.
23. Mary Berry.

15. Thomas Berry (son of Samuel who died in 1776) apparently died single. He made will in Charles County, Oct. 24, 1778, prob. Oct. 31, 1778. His will contains a wealth of suggestions which if properly followed out would solve some of the doubtful connections of the Berry, Smallwood, and Cawood families. He makes bequest to aunt Elizabeth Berry, aunt Ann Berry, to cousin John Berry, son of Humphrey Berry; to Mary Eleanor Atchison (no relationship shown); to Anne Conner, wife of Richard, during her life or until married (sic!); to William Smallwood (of John) "the upper part of my plantation in Prince George County * * * so long as he conducts himself properly as a tenant;" to Charles Inness, 100 acres where he now lives, to remain as a tenant; to Samuel Berry Atchison, son of Mary Eleanor Atchison, lands called "Duck Pond," "Porkhall," and "Batchellor's Delight" (the last two were once Smallwood holdings), lying in Charles County, also certain negroes; to Benjamin Cawood, Jr., land on east side of Duck Pond where the said Benjamin Cawood now lives. Good friend Benj. Cawood, Jr., is appointed exor. The will is signed "Tho Berry of Samuel." It is witnessed by Notley Ford, John Ford, and John Acton, Jr. On Aug. 4, 1802, Samuel Atchison Berry sold part of "Porkhall." I regard him as identical with Samuel Berry Atchison of Thomas Berry's will. No record has been found showing that the change of name had been made legally.

I next give records of Berrys who apparently belong to this line but whose exact place has not yet been found.

Bassil Berry and wife Jemima Berry had daughter Elizabeth Berry, bapt. April 10, 1768, in St. John's or Piscataway Parish, Prince George County. In 1778 Bassil Berry was living in Montgomery County.

Verlinda Berry owned part of "Hull" in 1782.

Ann Berry made will in Charles County in 1798, mentioning daughters Lyda Marlow and Verlinda Acton; grandchildren Hanson Marlow (son of John Marlow), William Marlow, John Marlow, and Barbary Acton.

Benjamin Berry is mentioned as son-in-law in will of William Brawner, 1802-03, Charles County. Lucy Berry is at same time mentioned as testator's daughter.

Samuel Berry was granted license to marry Ann Berry in Prince George County, Jan. 30, 1810.

A much earlier reference is found in the will of John Contee, gentleman, whose will was probated in Charles County, Aug. 21, 1708. (See Baldwin III, 111). In this will he mentions sister Agnes Berry of England. In the probate of the will depositions are taken from Col. James Smallwood, Eliza: Berry, spinster, aged 30, and others. The association of the names Berry and Smallwood is very suggestive. This may be a valuable clue to those who wish to trace the Berry family back to England, assuming of course that this Elizabeth Berry is of the family of Dr. Samuel Berry.

Other Berry references may be found in my article on the Smallwood family. See Maryland Historical Magazine, XXII, 139.

COLONIAL RECORDS OF CECIL COUNTY.

Contributed by Louis Dow Scisco.

Cecil County was created in 1674. The present court house at Elkton, completed in 1791, has been inadequate for public needs for many years. A fireproof addition to the main structure houses the record offices of the court clerk and register of wills but its space is very limited and quite inadequate. The county authorities are considering a reconstruction of the court house.

The deed book series of the county records is shelved in the congested office of the court clerk. In the court house proper, two unused rooms of an upper floor serve as storage places for disused records, one containing court clerk's records, the other treasurer's records. The earliest of this stored material dates back to the last decade of the 18th century, but the greater part is of the middle 19th century. It has been piled in disorder and has accumulated dirt since its deposit. Its future is in question. In a third room of the court house proper are wooden cupboards, three of which contain discarded deed and court records, shelved in an orderly way but without arrangement as to time. Many of these are delapidated. In date they range from 1674 to about 1870. There are some 800 record books here, a large portion being docket or fee books of former court clerks.

The conveyance records of the clerk's office seem to have been entered separately from the court proceedings from the beginning, instead of being intermingled, though sometimes both kinds of records were placed in the same volume. The earliest volume marking was alphabetical, in a series that extended from Liber A to Liber H. Sometime about 1710 the clerk John Dowdell introduced the idea of using for volume indication the initials of the recording clerk and this plan has since been followed. Joseph Baxter was clerk from 1790 to 1805. He probably found the accumulated record volumes somewhat the worse for wear, for he carried on a systematic transcription of the older records. Of the 14 volumes of colonial deed records now on the record office shelves 13 are Baxter's transcripts. The original books, mostly in bad condition or worse, are among the discarded material in the storage rooms. The colonial records shelved in the record office are as follows:

Liber M No. 1, with shelf number 1, is a transcript of conveyances derived from Libers D and G. It has 512 pages. (a) Pages 1-123, from Liber D, carry deeds entered from September, 1674, to about March, 1678-79, with three added papers of 1678, 1679, and 1680. Edward Williams and Swithin Welles were clerks. (b) Pages 124-216 presumably came from Liber G. They carry entries by Daniel Pearce, clerk, made from about November, 1698, to about March, 1699-1700.

(c) Pages 217-480, probably also from Liber G, carry conveyance entries by John Dowdell, clerk, made from September, 1702, to about September, 1705. (d) Pages 480-512 have addenda of 15 papers entered at intervals from 1708 to 1710 by Dowdell.

Liber J D No. 2, numbered 2, is a transcript with 401 pages, made from old conveyance Liber H and old Liber J D No. 2. (a) Pages 1-55 carry deeds recorded by William Wyvill, clerk, from about April, 1701, to about June, 1702. (b) Pages 56-401 bear deeds recorded by John Dowdell, clerk, from about September, 1705, to June, 1716.

Liber J D No. 3, numbered 3, is a transcript of 540 pages, taken from the older book of like title. Pages 1-185 have entries by John Dowdell, clerk, made from June, 1716, to December, 1718. Pages 185-540 are entries by Stephen Knight, clerk, from December, 1718, to March, 1722-23.

Liber D K No. 1, S K No. 6, W K L No. 3, with shelf number 4, shows by its compound title that it is a transcript of three earlier books. (a) Pages 1-380 carry entries of April, 1723, to May, 1733, made by Stephen Knight, and entries of May, 1733, to March, 1733-34, made by William Knight. (b) Pages 381-548, derived from original Liber W K & L, contain entries made by William Knight from March, 1737-38, to April, 1746, by Francis Lee from April, 1746, to January, 1749-50, and by Matthias Bordley from January, 1749-50, to November, 1751.

Liber without back-title, not shelved with the deeds series but kept in the record office, has pencilled cover legend "Land Division Record Book." Its 363 pages carry decisions on property bounds made from November, 1724, to November, 1751, for which there is an index of 90 references. The book also has 15 folios of writs issued in 1699.

Liber W K No. 2, numbered 5, has 539 pages of transcribed conveyances, all entered originally by William Knight, clerk, in the period from March, 1733-34, to April, 1740.

Liber W K N No. 11, numbered 6, is a transcript of 486 pages with conveyances recorded by William Knight from April, 1740, to June, 1745.

Liber F L No. 13, numbered 7, is a transcript of the former book so titled. It has 547 pages. Pages 1-401 are entries recorded from August, 1748, to September, 1749, by Francis Lee, clerk. Pages 402-547 are entries of October, 1749, to June, 1753, by Matthias Bordley, clerk.

Liber marked "Land Commrs No. 5 T K 1752," not shelved with the deeds series but kept in the record office, is a record of decisions on property boundaries made from November, 1750, to June, 1775. It has 341 pages and an index of 74 references. An inside entry gives F K No. 5 as its title.

Liber M No. 8, numbered 8, is a transcript volume of 550 pages of conveyances. Pages 1-411 are entries by Matthias Bordley from June, 1753, to October, 1756. Pages 411-550 are entries by Francis Key, clerk, from October, 1756, to June, 1758.

Liber M B, numbered 9, has 484 pages of transcribed conveyances entered originally by Francis Key, clerk. The period covered is from June, 1758, to August, 1762.

Liber F K No. 2, numbered 10, has 483 pages of transcribed conveyances originally recorded by Francis Key. Record was made from July, 1764, to May, 1767.

Liber F K No. 3, numbered 11, is a transcript of 550 pages of conveyances entered by Francis Key from May, 1767, to May, 1770.

Liber F K No. 3, numbered 12, is a transcript volume of conveyances with 183 pages. Pages 1-47 are entries by Francis Key from May, 1770, to January, 1771. Pages 48-183 are entries by Benjamin Young from January, 1771, to June, 1772.

Liber B Y No. 2, numbered 13, has 459 pages of transcribed conveyances entered by Benjamin Young from June, 1772, to August, 1774.

Liber B Y No. 4, numbered 14, has 352 pages of conveyances, of which pages 1-189 are entries of Benjamin Young from June, 1774, to August, 1776, and pages 189-352 are entries of Baruch Williams from September, 1776, to December, 1779. This volume is an original record. It contains also 167 pages of court proceedings for the sessions of August and November, 1769.

The discarded records of the court clerk have no shelf separation of deeds from court records, but for convenience of reference they are presented separately in the following lists.

Liber D is an original book of conveyances recorded from about June, 1674, to about January, 1679-80. It has 181 pages.

Liber remains consisting of two fragments of a book of conveyances, embracing pages 123-179 and carrying entries made from June, 1703, to April, 1704, are probably the remnants of old Liber G.

Liber remains embracing pages 131-243 of an original deed liber are probably part of old Liber H. The fragments have contents recorded from April, 1704, to May, 1709.

Liber with damaged back binding still showing "1714" has pages 15-197 of conveyances recorded from April, 1713, to June, 1716, together with 74 unnumbered pages of writs of 1698 to 1700, and 4 pages of surveys entered in 1707. It is probably part of old Liber J D No. 2.

Liber J D No. 3, with back binding missing but with flyleaf title, is a book of conveyances recorded from June, 1716, to March, 1722-23. It has 362 pages.

Liber D K No. 1, has back binding missing but is identified by flyleaf title. It contains 202 pages of conveyances recorded from April, 1723, to January, 1725-26. In the volume are also 165 pages of court proceedings from April, 1717, to November, 1718. Accompanying this book, though not properly a part of it, are the remains of old deed libers with entries of 1702, 1738, 1750, and 1751.

Liber W K No. 2, marked "1734 to 1739" as back-title, is identified by flyleaf legend. It is a parchment bound book of 329 pages. Contents are conveyances entered from March, 1733-34, to February, 1737-38.

Liber remains of a conveyance record are without identifying legend, but are probably Liber W K L No. 3. Pages 23-144 are present, carrying entries of December, 1740, to March, 1750-51.

Liber W K No. 11, marked "1740 to 1765" as back-title and identified by flyleaf legend, is a parchment bound book of conveyances extending from April, 1740, to June, 1745.

Liber F L No. 13, is a volume of 505 pages with conveyances entered from August, 1748, to June, 1753. Some loose folios of deeds of 1740 and 1751 are with it.

Liber M B, identified by flyleaf legend, is without back binding. Contents are 748 pages of conveyances recorded from March, 1753, to August, 1762.

Liber remains without covers embrace loose folios 1-517 of conveyances extending from 1764 to 1767. Probably it is F K No. 2.

Liber without back-title carries conveyances recorded from May, 1767, to May, 1772. This is an unusually large liber and all its leaves are vellum. Evidently it was constructed to serve as the parish register of the famous London parish whose name it bears, but was diverted to colonial uses. Its front cover has a panelled legend, "The Register Book of Marriages, Christenings and Burials in St. Margarets, Westminister."

Liber without covers has 237 pages of conveyances recorded from May, 1772, to May, 1773. It is probably old liber B Y No. 2.

Liber B Y No. 3, marked "1773 to 1774," has 296 pages of conveyances recorded from May, 1773, to August, 1774.

The old libers of court proceedings that are among the discarded records are mostly in poor condition, the original bindings having never been renewed. These court libers, in a few cases, contain some groups of conveyances.

Liber marked "1683 to 1692," is a parchment bound book of court proceedings without page numbering. It contains sessions of August, 1683, to September, 1692. In it are two loose folios of the session of March, 1692-93.

Liber marked "1692 to 1696," is also a parchment bound book, and is unpaged. It carries court proceedings from November, 1692, to January, 1697-98, together with 29 pages of court orders in probate matters from 1690 to 1692.

Liber E, marked "1700 to 1716," is a parchment bound book of 393 pages with session records from January, 1708-09, to March, 1716-17. It contains also 11 pages of conveyances of 1693 and 1696, and 15 pages of treasurer's accounts of 1695 to 1700.

Liber S K No. 1, marked "1718 to 1721," is identified by flyleaf legend. Contents are 466 pages of court records of sessions from March, 1718-19, to March, 1721-22.

Liber marked "1723 to 1730," and with cover legend "S K Court Proceedings," has 564 pages of session records from June, 1723, to November, 1730. It is parchment bound.

Liber S K No. 4, marked "1730 to 1731," is identified by flyleaf legend. It carries court session records of November, 1730, to November, 1732. At the close of the last recorded session is the entry; "This court fell and all the proceedings, Stephen Knight clerk."

Liber W K No. 4, marked "1733 to 1741," is identified by flyleaf legend. Contents are 203 pages of session records from March, 1732-33, to August, 1741.

Liber of "orphans bonds," contains 273 pages of bonds entered from 1757 to 1773. In a separate section are 11 pages of deeds recorded from June to November, 1753.

Liber marked "1759 is a book of court proceedings with 536 pages covering sessions from March to August, 1759.

Liber F K No. 3, marked "1759 to 1760," is identified by flyleaf legend. It carries court records of November, 1759, to November, 1760.

Liber fragment carries pages 21-34 of court record of session of June, 1763.

Liber without title, parchment bound, has 328 pages of court proceedings from March, 1767, to June, 1769.

Docket book of about 200 pages has the clerk's entries for the sessions of March, 1767, to August, 1768.

Docket book of about 400 pages has the court clerk's entries for the court sessions held in 1770.

Liber B Y No. 1, marked "March court 1771 to November court 1771," has 462 pages of court session records for the period stated.

Docket book of about 300 pages carries the court clerk's entries for the sessions of 1771 and 1772.

Liber B Y No. 2, marked "March court 1772 to November court 1773," has 435 pages of session records for the period stated.

Docket book of about 400 pages contains the court clerk's entries for the sessions of March, 1773, to November, 1774.

Liber with illegible back-title has 458 pages of court proceedings from November, 1773, to August, 1774.

The office of the register of wills has its records shelved in modern steel cases. There are eleven volumes of colonial material in good condition. Ten of these were originally arranged in a series bearing roman numerals. At some later date they were renumbered in three groups, each with a series of arabic numerals. The bindings are much worn and identification of the volume is sometimes difficult.

EXTRACTS FROM ACCOUNT AND LETTER BOOKS OF DR. CHARLES CARROLL, OF ANNAPOLIS.

Maryland September 20th 1748

My Lord

Among others you have taken an Assignment from Mr Samuel Hyde of a sume of money said to be due from me to him amounting to £465.. 3.. 5 at the time of makeing that assignment and long before I had a demand on Mr Hyde on account of an Insureance on a Vessell here and hence to Barbados there and Back again to the Port of Annapolis in Maryland the Premio and Comission on which Insureance be Charged me in Acct and I did to Him & can to yor Lordship or any unbiassed Person prove a Loss I sustained in the Voyage and which by his own Letter He Promised to make good.

I had also at the time of makeing the said assignment Effects in His hands and made him Remittance before any Knowledge of His Failing to the amount of about Eighty Pounds sterling which He Credits me with in a subsequent account transmitted to me by Captn Jerningham Biggs and in which acct He Charges me with the said account assigned Yr Lordship and therein strikes a Ballance which account no doubt will appear on his Books.

Altho the Loss I sustained on the Insured Voyage aforesaid was very Considereable more than what I am now to Propose to yr Lordship to take yet for avoiding Litigation or Contest with yr Lordship which I abhor with any; If in that account assigned to you, you will Credit me for one Hundred an thirty Pounds ster. for the said Dammage sustained as also Credit me for the Effects and Remittance made Mr Hyde before notice of the old assignment amounting to about Eighty Pounds which will appear by his Books I will Pay yr Lordship the Ballance upon the first Notice from either Mr John Philpot or Mr William Black merchants in London to either of Whom you will Please to Communicate yr answer.

If this Proposeal will not do I will Refer the whole to the Determination of the four merchants nominated Commissioners In London in this suit Commenced against me in yr Lordships High Court of Chancery here in Maryland, and Whatever they Determine therein I will Comply with and Immediately Pay yr Ldsp in the Hands of the two fore mentioned merchants.

I have that opinion of Yr Lordships love to Justice Honour and Candour that you would not use any means or Permit any to be used which might tend to oppress any of His Majesty's Subjects within Yr Province.

That I am a Good and faithfull Subject to His Majesty my Neighbours will testify and Your Lordships accounts, Rent Roll, and Improvements contributed to be made by me in Your Province will shew me to be a Good Servant to Your Lordship and therefore Deserve Your Protection. . . .

To The Right Honble Charles Lord Baltimore

Maryland Sept. 20th 1748

Gentlemen

We In this Province can have Recourse to None others than Gentlemen in trade with whose Characters or Persons we are acquainted in such Cases as is the Present betwixt the Lord Baltimore and myself, therefore I hope you will Excuse me the Trouble I presume to Give you on the occasion and Wherein I must Request yr assistance so far as is Consistent with Iustice. The Inclosed Letter Seal'd for the Lord Baltimore I desire you will have Delivered to Him by a sure Hand, Copy of wch I likewise inclose for Your Peruseal that thereby you may Know the offer I make him which I hope you will Judge with me to be Reasonable. In Case His Lordship accepts thereof I desire you will jointly let Him Know that you will Pay Him any Ballance not Exceeding Three Hundred pounds ster and which sume I conceive to be the utmost can be due, and which I will Keep Lodged in Your Hands for that Purpose.

Inclosed is Coppy of Mr Hydes last account transmitted to me since His assignment to Lord Baltimore nor Could I Know before the Remittance made of such assignment or failure of Mr Hyde, I make no Doubt but you will find His Books stand agreable to this Coppy and which I Desire you will Examine. As to the matter of the Insureance I wrote so fully to Mr Black before that I think I need not Enlarge and I make no Doubt but He will Explain the Whole to you, His Lordship, or the Commissioners in Case His Lordship will Refer it, but if any thing Further be Needfull as Proof from Mr Carrington my merchant in Barbadoes who had the Dammage Viewed and Proved & in London Delivered to Mr Hyde such Proofs and offered any further satisfaction in the Case to whom Mr Hyde answered, that what He had Delivered was sufficient. I can have it from Him on the first Notice Transferr'd to Ye to London from Barbados.

And any Proof Needfull from Hence as to shipping the Goods or Effects on the said Vessel or any other Necessary to Explain the matter if Needfull. The Lord Baltimore has Certainly more than Enough assigned to Him for His satisfaction Exclusive of this Demand on me Wherefore I think it Hard that His Agents here should Insist on more from me than is Bona fide Due from me to Mr Hyde what is I am very Ready to Pay if more be taken I must attribute it to being overpowered.

I am not upon an Equal Footing here with my antagonist therefore I hope you will Endeavour to have the matter adjusted there which I am sure you can with a little trouble and some address do.

In Case His Lordship will not agree nor Refer as before I hope you will Procure the Comission to be Kept open till I instruct what is necessary to be Proved there from Mr Hydes Books and His Letters and answer to Mr Black on the subject and other Matters which require Proof there.

I hope for a Line in Relation Hereto by the first opportunity with y^{r} sentiments. . . .

To Mess^{rs} John Philpott & William Black

Annapolis Sept^{r} 21st 1748

Captain Le Gras from M^{r} Black by Way of Port Mahon was at my House, He has a large ship many Hands and attended with great Expence M^{r} Black by His Letters Expected He might Load with Tobacco & I suppose at High Freight Adequate to the Rate of Wages when fitted out; I am of opinion that it is Impossible for him this Winter or Perhaps till late in the Summer to Load such a ship; and as the Charges of lyeing ten months will be very great will it not be well for you and M^{r} Blacks friends to Consider and Advise Capt^{n} Le Gras to make a Voyage by which M^{r} Black may not be, a Certain Looser as he will by His the s^{d} Le Gras Lyeing Here.

The Capt^{n} tells me He Can be sure of a Freight of Masts &c from Casco Bay to Brittain in the Government Service where He may be time Enough to be Here before tobacco is Ready, and then Come out as to Less Expence as to Wages and other Incidents. I Know you have M^{r} Blacks Interest at Heart, How far you would interfere here in I do not Know but Really it is a Pitty the Gentleman for want of Good Intelligence or some Persons here to advise or who have Power absolutely to order should be a Certain Looser as he must be if the ship lyes Here w^{ch} by an other Voyage may be Prevented.

I thought Proper to give you this Hint not Knowing but you may be able to sett the matter Right which I wish may be done. . . .

To D^{r} Geo Buchanan

Maryland Sep^{r} 22^{d} 1748

Sir

Two Days past Cap^{t} Le Gro's was at my house being just Arived from Port Mahon in your Winchester, I fear it will be very diffecult for him to get a Leading to Answer you with Respect to time, the Tobacco being Chiefly gone; and what is not Engaged by the many ships now in & dayly Expected, w^{ch} will likewise make Freight so low that Ships Fited out at the Wages yours was, can not make common Charges. The Cap^{t} told me he could get Freight of Masts yards &c for the government Service at Casco Bay, where he could be in good time to Load and get Home if he had any power so to do.

I wrote to your friend Doct^{r} George Buchanan Recomending the Consideration of the matter to him and your other Friends who had any Power from you to direct.

The Cap^{t} might be here Early enough in the Spring for our present Crop w^{ch} will not be shiped very Forward by Reason of the Inspecting, And then no doubt fited out on easier Terms Than he is now, how your Friends will conclude this matter I do not know, but I wish the best for your Interest. . . .

Dr. Thomas Edward Sears, December 21st, 1927,
Mr. David Ridgely Howard, December 29th, 1927,
Mr. J. Bannister Hall, January 7th, 1928.

The attention of the members was called by the President to Article III, Sec. 8, of the Constitution, which provides the following:

"Nominations for the officers, trustees and members of committees named in this Article shall be made viva voce at the stated meeting in January by members entitled to vote, and shall be registered by the Recording Secretary."

The following nominations were made:

President—W. Hall Harris.
Vice-Presidents—Van Lear Black, DeCourcy W. Thom, and Clinton L. Riggs.

Richard M. Duvall was nominated for a Vice-President by Mrs. Hester Dorsey Richardson.

Corresponding Secretary—J. Hall Pleasants.
Recording Secretary—George L. Radcliffe.
Treasurer—Heyward E. Boyce.

(For Committees see Annual Meeting.)

The President then introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. William Ingle, who read a paper entitled "Money: Its Nature and Function."

At the close of the very interesting paper the Society extended a vote of thanks to Mr. Ingle.

February 13th, 1928.—The regular meeting of the Society was held tonight at its rooms with the President in the Chair.

The following persons, previously nominated, were elected to membership:

Active:—

Mrs. Howard Sill, Miss Jane James Cook,
Mrs. Wm. Rush (Edna Hogan) Dunton, Jr.

The following deaths were reported from among our members:

Mrs. Samuel Grafton Duvall, February 16th, 1927,
Mr. Sidell Tilghman, October 15th, 1927,
Mr. Eugene A. Slack, January 9th, 1928,
Mr. Edward M. Hammond, January 12th, 1928,
Mr. William F. Lucas, Jr., January 31st, 1928.

Vice-President Thom reported for the Special Committee, consisting of the three Vice-Presidents of the Society, which was appointed to confer with the Municipal authorities concerning the recognition of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Founding of Baltimore. He stated that the Committee secured a meeting with the Mayor, who assured them of his appreciation of the attitude of the Society, and said that in due time he would avail of the pre-offered services of the Maryland Historical Society.

Mr. Thom the speaker of the evening was then introduced. He read a paper entitled "Three Foundational Services of Maryland."

Mr. Duvall moved that the Society extend to Mr. Thom a vote of thanks and appreciation for his most interesting and instructive paper.

In seconding the motion Dr. James M. Magruder discussed the subject and said that the Colony was not founded upon religious toleration, but more for financial reasons, but allowed freedom of worship.

Mrs. Hester Dorsey Richardson was then recognized by the Chair and stated "that as Dr. Magruder took the view that Cecil Calvert did not found the Province with any thought of religious toleration, but more for his financial reasons, she wished to endorse Mr. Thom's statements which were based on a letter from Charles 3rd Lord Baltimore, to the Board of Trade at London, in which he declared that his father had promised freedom of worship without penalties to all who would go to Maryland as first settlers; saying that she also had a copy of this letter and in addition to this, one from Earl of Arundel, father-in-law of Calvert, in which he said Lord Baltimore had so impoverished himself in setting forth his Plantation of Maryland, that he had to support him and his family." Mrs. Richardson then stated "that she thought it would be a pity to throw doubt upon Cecil Calvert's good intentions as declared in these records, but on the contrary they should be acknowledged and stressed at the Ter-Centennary of Maryland."

The motion having been seconded, discussed quite at length, it was unanimously carried.

There being no further business, upon motion seconded and carried, the meeting adjourned.

ANNUAL MEETING.

February 13th, 1928.—Immediately upon the adjournment of the monthly meeting, the Annual Meeting was called to order.

Attention was called to Article III, Sec. 8, of the Constitution which provides for the nominations of officers, trustees, etc., at the regular meeting of the Society in January. This was done, and the Ballot printed, and a copy sent to each member of the Society. It was stated however, that several discrepancies appeared on the Ballot:

Van Lear Black was re-nominated for a Vice-President, but as he withdrew his name this was not shown on the Ballot.

Dr. J. Hall Pleasants was nominated for Corresponding Secretary, but declined nomination and his name did not appear on the Ballot.

It was also stated that the present incumbents of the Committee on Genealogy and Heraldry were re-nominated without the nomination of someone to fill the vacancy on the Committee caused by the death of Dr. Thomas E. Sears. The President stated that these vacancies would now be filled by the Council.

Hon. Walter I. Dawkins made the following motion:

That, the Secretary be directed to cast the Ballot as printed, as there was to be no contest for any office.

The motion was seconded and unanimously carried.

The Secretary then announced that the election of officers and members of Committees had resulted as follows:

President.

W. Hall Harris.

Vice-Presidents.

Richard M. Duvall. Clinton L. Riggs.

DeCourcy W. Thom.

Acknowledgment was made of the Annual Report of the Council and the several Standing Committees.

Vice-President Thom made the following motion:

That, all the Reports be taken as read, as they are to be printed in the March issue of the Magazine.

Hon. Walter I. Dawkins seconded the motion. Discussion followed and the following amendment was offered by Mr. Thomas Foley Hisky:

That, all reports be accepted as read, with the exception of the Report of the Council.

The motion and amendment were unanimously carried.

The President then read the report of the Council.

There being no further business, upon motion duly seconded and carried, the meeting adjourned.

Report of the Council.

The Council reports, in so far as it is prepared to do so, upon the basis of such of the Reports of Committees as have been submitted:

The Permanent Endowment Fund has been increased four thousand three hundred dollars by a legacy under the Will of Mrs. D. M. Hite, and certain life memberships. Under the watchful supervision of the Treasurer and the Finance Committee, the finances of the Society continue to be in satisfactory condition.

The Society is indebted to its friends for many and valuable additions to its collections, among which may be noted, from The Colonial Dames of America, Chapter I, its Membership Chart; from the Estate of the late Mrs. Thomas B. Gresham, handsome silver candelabra and China; from The Maryland Branch of The National Society of Colonial Dames of America, Collections of American War Songs; from Mrs. Henry Stockbridge, books and documents from the collections of the late Vice-President Stockbridge; Dr. Clapham Pennington, large collection of genealogical charts and papers of historic interest; Professor Raphael Semmes, who has added to his already large donations of manuscripts, books, etc., from the collections made by the late John E. Semmes.

By the courtesy of General Lawrason Riggs, the Society has been permitted to continue on exhibition the valuable and interesting collection of early portraits of members of the Calvert family, secured by him in Italy and which he has had restored with unusual success.

The Bonaparte Room has been moved to the first floor and the space it formerly occupied is being furnished by Mrs. Francis T. Redwood, with an interesting collection of historic value.

The Society has taken an interest in the proposed recognition of the three hundredth anniversary of the Founding of the Province of Maryland and the two hundredth anniversary of the Founding of the City of Baltimore, as well as in the acquisition and preservation of the Flag House in Baltimore, and the undertaking of St. John's College, involving the purchase, restoration, refurnishing and preservation by it of the Hammond-Harwood and other colonial homes in Annapolis.

It has been found practicable to make very extensive changes and improvements in the lighting system of the buildings, to the especial advantage not only of the Library but of the Print and Civil War Rooms as well. Also to provide for some additional clerical service and for somewhat increasing the compensation of the members of the working force.

Assistance has been rendered the Governor in connection with enquiries made of him by The Stone Mountain Memorial Commission and to many persons seeking authoritative information upon historical and genealogical matters. In these cases, as in others of almost daily occurrence, the Society constantly recognizes the serious loss it has sustained by the death of its Corresponding Secretary, the late Mr. J. Appleton Wilson. Council has not yet filled the vacancy.

Some valuable work has been done in the photostat department of the Library, but difficulty is experienced in securing the services of competent and skilled operatives.

Volume 45 of the State Archives covering the Journal and Correspondence of the State Council, 1780-1781, has been completed and distributed. Volume 46 is well under way.

There is under consideration a tentative suggestion of coöperative work with certain of the Patriotic Societies, looking to more extensive card-indexing of valuable matter in the possession of this Society than its present resources permit.

Respectfully submitted, for the Council,

W. Hall Harris,
President.

Report of the Library Committee.

Your Committee takes pleasure in reporting that the accessions to the Library during the past year have been many and valuable, largely due to the interest and generosity of our membership. Statistics are neither interesting nor enlightening, but for purposes of record it may be stated that the donations included 140 volumes of books, 110 pamphlets, 600 manuscripts, 15 photographs, several photostats and some 500 pieces of local sheet music. Through the generosity of Mr. H. Oliver Thompson we have been able to acquire by purchase an eighteenth century volume of the Maryland Journal and Daily Advertiser, 1778-79, which closes a large gap during an important period. The Society is under special obligation also to Mrs. Mary B. Redwood, Mrs. Henry Stockbridge, Dr. John Donaldson Murray, Dr. Henry J. Berkley, Dr. Clapham Pennington, Mr. R. Brooke Hopkins and Mr. Raphael Semmes, all of whom have given largely and liberally. Miss Ellen Howard Bayard has deposited the Bayard Papers, consisting of pamphlets, account books, letters and documents concerning various members of the Bayard and Howard families, a collection of great value and interest. Accompanying the deposit were Herman's Map of Maryland and Virginia, 2 cornices from Belvedere Mansion, 2 rolls of maps and plates, 1 navy sword and 1 dress sword.

Our sheet music collection is now a rather imposing one. It will be remembered that from 1800 to 1870 Baltimore was one of the largest music publishing centers of the country; and aside from the interest as local imprints, these sheets, many of which bear interesting lithographed covers of historic places long since vanished, contribute materially to our knowledge of local iconography. And to the seeing eye they may also contribute fragments of information from which to piece out obscure biographical details.

The restoration and repairs of the manuscript archives was interrupted for a number of months by the serious illness of the principal worker, but for some months past the work has been resumed and three persons are now engaged on it. It is hoped that another year may show a substantial increase in this important undertaking. Through volunteer work, many thousands of State papers have been flattened out, sorted by months and years and boxed, so that reference to them is comparatively easy. Much remains to be done, but real progress has been accomplished.

The cataloguing has gone steadily forward and a second cataloguer has been added to the force. Segregation of duplicated material will enable us to dispose of the surplusage by sale or exchange and at the same time gain a little space on our crowded shelves. An order has been placed for two new newspaper stacks in the basement, which also will help to relieve the congestion.

Your Committee has sold a mass of duplicate pamphlets for the sum of five hundred dollars, a price, in the judgment of experts, very advantageous to the Society. No special mention is made of the Genealogical accessions, as they will be reported in detail by the Committee on Genealogy and Heraldry. The photostat machine has been operated under adverse conditions and the output, while quite considerable, has not been entirely satisfactory. Plans for its improvement are under consideration.

Respectfully submitted,

L. H. Dielman,
Chairman Library Committee.

Report of the Committee on Genealogy and Heraldry.

The Committee on Genealogy and Heraldry regrets to report the loss of two of its most valuable members during the past year, Francis B. Culver, who served for many years as its most capable chairman, having resigned because of his removal to Washington, D. C., where he is now devoting his entire time to the office of Registrar General of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, and Dr. Thomas E. Sears, who died December 21st, 1927. Dr. Sears was the Secretary of the Maryland Society of the Cincinnati and devoted much time in the library of the Maryland Historical Society, searching original records, and he had acquired considerable data on many of the Colonial families of Maryland. Dr. Sears became a member of this Society in 1894 and had served on the Committee of Genealogy and Heraldry since 1904. He was noted for the care and accuracy with which he compiled his notes and was not only a diligent and enthusiastic member, but was always willing to aid others with data and suggestions.

During the year the Vestry Proceedings of the following Churches and other records have been indexed by Miss Harrison:

Vestry Proceedings of St. Paul's Parish, Queen Ann's Co., Md.

Vestry Proceedings of St. John's Parish, Prince George's Co., Md.

Vestry Proceedings of St. John's Parish, Caroline Co., Md.

Vestry Proceedings of St. Peter's Parish, Talbot Co., Md.

Vestry Proceedings of St. Michael's Parish, Talbot Co., Md.

Vestry Proceedings of Queen Anne's Parish, Prince George's Co., Md.

Vestry Proceedings of Stepney Parish, Somerset Co., Md.

Vestry Proceedings of Coventry Parish, Somerset Co., Md.

Ann Arundell Co. Rent Rolls 1675-1774.

Corporation of Annapolis, Md., 1757-1765.

Corporation of Annapolis, Md., 1765-1772.

Survey of lots in Annapolis, Md.

The work of photostating the lists of persons who took the "Oath of Fidelity" during the Revolutionary War has been almost completed and if time permits these copies will be bound and indexed during the coming year.

Through Dr. Arthur B. Kinsolving, Rector, and Clarendon I. T. Gould, Registrar, the original records of Old St. Paul's Church were deposited with the Society and permission granted to photostat such records that had not been previously copied. Photostat reproductions have been made of the records covering the years 1838-1925. These have been bound and are now being indexed by Miss Harrison. The records of the Parish from 1713-1837 were copied and indexed by Miss Harrison in 1904.

This Committee respectfully suggests that the Genealogies of Maryland Families, compiled by Hester Dorsey Richardson and Emily E. Lantz, and published in the Baltimore Sunday Sun from 1903-1908, be photostated. These articles were cut from the papers at the time of their publication and mounted in scrapbooks, but due to their frequent use and the natural disintegration of the poor quality of paper on which they were printed, they are falling to pieces and unless photostated immediately they will have to be withdrawn from use. We would further suggest that each article be bound separately and filed in its proper place with the other classified genealogies in the Society's collection.

Photostat reproductions, handsomely bound, of the genealogical charts of the members of Chapter I, Colonial Dames of America, were presented by that Chapter.

The card index of genealogical "source material," which is being compiled by Miss Kennedy, has been added to considerably during the year. The principle object of this index is to make readily accessible the location of data relating to Maryland families, especially in "out-of-the-way" places. It has proven very useful, and is a great time saver.

The following list of genealogies have been presented to the Library during 1927:

Vol. 3 of Ball Family records containing the Pennsylvania Pioneer Line. MS. compiled by the donor, Henry L. Kirk.

Genealogy of the Brown Family of Virginia. MS. compiled by the donor, Henry L. Kirk.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON ADDRESSES AND LITERARY ENTERTAINMENTS.

The Committee on Addresses and Literary Entertainments reports that during the past year, to wit; from February 1, 1927, to February 1, 1928, the programme at the different meetings of the Society was as follows:

February 14, 1927.—"Exhibition of a Group of Eighteenth Century Calverts and Their Story," by Dr. J. Hall Pleasants.

March 14, 1927.—Presentation of a volume of Genealogical Charts on behalf of Chapter I, Colonial Dames of America, by Dr. Joseph S. Ames. An article on "William Claiborne," by DeCourcey W. Thom, Esq., read by John L. Sanford, Esq.

April 11, 1927.—"The Lord Fairfax Stone and the Settlement of the Long-Disputed Western Boundary of Maryland," by Mr. W. McCulloh Brown.

May 9, 1927.—"An Address on the Magna Carta," by John L. Sanford, Esq.

June 30, 1927.—At a special meeting of the Maryland Historical Society the Eastern Shore Society awarded prizes in an historical essay contest and a paper was read on "The Literature of the Eastern Shore" by Mr. John H. K. Shannahan.

October 10, 1927.—"Economic Beginnings of Maryland," by Raphael Semmes, Ph. D.

November 14, 1927.—"Baltimore in Maryland," by Hon. Walter I. Dawkins.

December 12, 1927.—"Colonial Homes of Annapolis Purchased by St. John's College," by Dr. James Bordley, Jr.

January 9, 1927.—"Money; Its Nature and Function," by Mr. William Ingle.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN L. SANFORD,
Chairman.

Report of the Trustees of the Athenaeum.

The Trustees of the Athenaeum submit herewith their financial report for the calendar year 1927.

The budget allowance at the beginning of the year was $4,500. We have expended in maintenance and improvements to the Society's building, wages, fuel, insurance premiums, etc., $4,956.36, leaving a deficit of $456.36. By action of the Council, December 9th, 1927, you, as President, were authorized to pay any deficit of the Trustees caused by the unusual expenses during the year. We do not anticipate any extraordinary expenditures during the year 1928 and the budget allowance should be sufficient. The following is a statement of our account. All bills have been paid.

Allowance		$4,500.00
Wages	$1,700.00
Special lighting authorized by the Council in the Library, Print room, Civil War room, Redwood and Bonaparte rooms	834.53
Electricity	237.19
Repairs to skylights, furnace, radiator hood covers and general repair work	377.18
Painting hallway from Park Ave. entrance to landing on stairs in main hallway; Bonaparte and Cohen rooms; and painting skylight	307.00
Fuel	1,080.00
Removing ashes from the cellar	70.00
Insurance premiums	158.56
Water rent	56.50
General wiring repairs	42.00
Miscellaneous	93.40
		4,956.36
Allowance		4,500.00
Deficit		456.36

Respectfully submitted,

Jesse N. Bowen,
Chairman.

Report of the Committee on the Gallery.

Because of the short time this Committee has been acting, with its present membership, there are few accessions to report.

An eighteenth century chest-on-chest of native workmanship, bequeathed to the Society by Mrs. H. T. Beacham, has been placed in the upper hall.

Means are being considered to protect from dust the more valuable paintings in the hall.

Because of the crowded condition of the galleries, it is becoming more and more difficult to place new acquisitions. It will not be long before the Society will be unable to accept even the most desirable objects offered to it, because of the impossibility of properly placing them.

Respectfully submitted,

Laurence H. Fowler, Chairman.

HISTORICAL MAGAZINE

VOL. XXIII. JUNE, 1928. No. 2.

INDEX TO CHANCERY DEPOSITIONS, 1668-1789.

BY WILLIAM FRANCIS CREGAR AND DR. CHRISTOPHER JOHNSTON.

These references to the Manuscript Archives of the State are of so much importance to genealogists and others interested in researches into family history, that an unusually large portion of this issue and the two following ones will be devoted to it in order that it may all be included in one volume. It was compiled by the late W. F. Creager and was largely supplemented by Dr. Christopher Johnston, the joint work being reduced to a strict alphabetic sequence, which will obviate the necessity for a special index.

Abbott, John, of Dorchester co., planter, aet. 63 in 1736. I. R. no. 3, fol. 183.

THE FIRST CHURCH IN CHARLES COUNTY.

Louis Dow Scisco

Very little is known of the beginnings of Protestant worship in Maryland. The provincial records give but a few scattered hints, and the early county court books, which might have told more, have for the most part disappeared. In Charles County, thanks to the preservation of its first record book, some details have been kept from loss, telling of the early pastorate of Rev. Francis Doughtie, one time vicar of Old Sodbury, in County Gloucester, England.

The vicar was son of an elder Francis Doughtie, merchant and alderman of Bristol, who retired from business and lived for a time as a country gentleman at Oldbury, some fifteen miles from Bristol. When the father died in 1634 the younger Francis was pastor of Old Sodbury, a few miles from Oldbury, and had a wife and three children. Drawn into the fast-growing puritan movement the vicar, in 1636, came under the notice of the Anglican church authorities and seems to have lost his pulpit in consequence. Soon afterward, probably in 1638, he went to New England where puritanism had its own way. For a time he lived at Dorchester, near Boston, and here, in 1639, another child was added to the family. Of Mrs. Doughtie nothing is known beyond the fact that her name was Bridget. The children were Mary, Francis, Elias, and Enoch.

In 1639 or 1640 the ex-vicar became pastor of the newly settled town of Taunton, but his tenure was short. He fell into controversy with the extremists of his congregation over the matter of baptism, on which subject he held more liberal views than did the leaders of New England thought. As a result he was deposed from his pastorate, apparently in 1641.

From Taunton the Doughtie family went to Rhode Island for a time and here the minister took part in organizing a new colonizing project, the purpose of which was to establish an English-speaking settlement on western Long Island, in the Dutch colony of New Netherland. In the spring of 1642 the group obtained a land grant for Mespat in the modern Borough of Brooklyn. Here a new town was started and Doughtie became the local pastor. But hardly was settlement well under way when, in 1643, an Indian uprising drove the settlers off. The Doughtie family fled to Manhattan for safety. At the Dutch capital the minister found new friends. There were many English residents among the Dutch. With the consent of the Dutch ministers these English organized a separate congregation, making Doughtie their pastor. In the Dutch colony of New Netherland the only church organization recognized was that of the Reformed Church of the Netherlands. This English congregation was a unit of that body. It met in the Dutch church building and its pastor drew his support from collections taken in his own and in the Dutch congregations.

The stay of the Doughtie household in Manhattan lasted from 1643 to 1646. The English church was organized probably in 1644. In October, 1645, Mary Doughtie was wedded to Adrian Vanderdonck, a rising lawyer and politician of the colonial city. Vanderdonck was interested in colonization. In the spring of 1646 he started a new settlement at what is now Yonkers and took his bride into the wilderness. In the same year the minister Doughtie went back to Mespat and took up again the work of establishing a settlement. He was so successful in this that his former partners, in 1647, sued him in the colonial court for a share in the property. The question seems to have been as to whether or not the partners' rights had lapsed by their abandonment of effort in 1643. The court decided that their rights were still good. Doughtie threatened to appeal his case to the Dutch authorities in Europe, whereat the colonial court imposed on him a fine and a jail sentence of twenty-four hours as a warning against such action. Their persuasion seems to have been successful.

A few miles from Mespat the new English-speaking settlement of Flushing was organized, apparently in the spring of 1647. Doughtie was chosen pastor of the new town. According to one authority his pastorate began this same year. It lasted to 1654. In the latter year he is found suing his congregation for arrears of salary which had been provided for by contract but had not been paid to him.

In connection with his pastorate at Flushing there has evolved a pleasant modern myth to the effect that Doughtie was in some special sense an early minister of the present-day Presbyterian Church. In England he had been an Anglican pastor. In New England he had been, necessarily, a Congregationalist. In New Netherland he was a minister of the Reformed Church of the Netherlands, which had a presbyterian form of organization. In 1657 an ecclesiastical report on the condition of the colonial church was sent from Manhattan to the Amsterdam classis. The writers mentioned Doughtie and another minister as having English-speaking congregations. Seeking words to explain that these ministers had affiliated with the established Reformed church, instead of clinging to the congregational polity of New England, the authors of the report stated that the pastors were presbyterian. The modern misconception of this statement seems to have started with O'Callaghan, the historian of New Netherland.

The year 1655 brought changes in the lives of the Doughties. Mary Doughtie, now Vanderdonck, became a widow about June of this year, and in September the Indians drove the settlers off the Vanderdonck plantation at Yonkers. About this time the minister sailed for Virginia. Conjecture suggests that Mrs. Vanderdonck joined him after losing her property and that they sailed together late in 1655. Certainly both were out of the Dutch colony by August, 1656. Whether or not Mrs. Doughtie was still alive at this time is not of record. The two older boys, Francis and Elias, were now farmers on Long Island, where they remained and became prominent citizens in after years. Young Enoch went with his father to Virginia.

Doughtie is next heard of as pastor of Hungars parish in the Accomac peninsula of Virginia. The Virginian church had been strictly Anglican up to 1652, when the colony submitted to parliament authority. After that date the several parishes were left to go their own ways without interference by legislative acts of reform. Doughtie came back, probably, to a modified Anglicanism having no surplice or Book of Common Prayer but otherwise, no doubt, very much what it had been prior to 1652. Of his pastorate at Hungars very little is recorded. It is mentioned that in 1655 he instigated a witchcraft prosecution, that in 1656 he is favorably mentioned in the will of a parishioner, and that in June, 1657, he took to himself a new wife, Ann Eaton, widowed sister of William Stone, ex-governor of Maryland. In 1658 or 1659 he closed his Virginia pastorate and went to Maryland. In October, 1659, he was living at Patuxent River, but whether or not he held a pastorate there is not stated.

The earliest reference to the presence of Mr. Doughtie in Charles County is found in a bill of debt, a paper which in those days performed the functions of the modern promissory note. The bill shows that in June, 1660, the minister promised to pay George Short a certain amount of tobacco either at Pickawaxen in Charles County or at Potomac, on the Virginia side.

This bill bindeth mee Francis Doughtie my heirs Executors or Assignes to pay or Cause to bee payd unto George Short his Executors or Assignes the full sum of eight hundered pounds of good Marchantable leafe tob and Caske to bee payd at Pikiawaxon or Patomake at or upon the tenth day of November next ensuing the date hearof as witnes this my hand this 21th day of June Ao 1660

Raphell Haywood Fr Doughtie
Alexander Eaton

The debt to Short was not the only obligation of the minister at this period. About January or February, 1661, Captain William Battin, who kept a frontier store at Pickawaxen, summoned Mr. Doughtie to county court. Presumably the matter was adjusted, for the case never came to trial.

Meanwhile Doughtie had organized a church and was officiating as pastor. The earliest evidence of this is the suit of Joan Mitchell filed in the summer of 1661 and called for trial in the court session of September 24. Earlier references show that Joan Mitchell had for some time been under popular suspicion of witchcraft. The allegation she stoutly denied. At this particular time the imputation had again been raised and in self-defense she brought suit against four persons, alleging slander. Her petition in the case shows that she felt that Mr. Doughtie was shielding her enemies.

Whereas your Poor Petitioner is most shamfully [used] and her good name taken away from her shee doath desire that shee may be righted and that shee may be searched by able Woemen whether she bee such a person or no which thos persons say I am and if I bee found to bee such a one I may bee punished by law or els to bee Cleared by Proclamation and that the worshipfull bench woold tak it into ther serious Consideration how that I am Abused and my good name taken from mee without disart and I most humbly desire your worships that I may have the law against them and I your poore petitioner shall bee bound to pray for you and yours. I desire yt Mr Francis Doughty may bring thos Persons to light that have raysed these schandalous reports of mee for hee sayd that I salluted a Woman at Church and her teeth fell a Aking as if shee had bin mad and I desired him to tell mee who had raysed this report of mee and hee woold not and so from one to an other my good name is taken away that I Cannot bee at quiet for them for it is all their delight and table talke how to doe mee a mischief beeing a poore distressed Widow but my trust is in God that he will plead my Case for mee and will never suffer the poor and innocent to perish by the hands of their enemies for of a sunday as I was going to Church with too of Capt. Fendalls folks Mr Walkers man hurled stones at mee as I was going a long and so hid himself again which for any thing that I know his master might set him on to Mischiefe mee and hee himself wrongs mee by word and I your petitioner shal bee ever bound to pray for you

The suit of Joan Mitchell against the minister went no farther than the complaint. The trial was postponed to the November court and at that session the case was formally dismissed because neither party appeared.

Another case that came before the court of September, 1661, had some reference to ministerial work of Mr. Doughtie. Eleanor Empson, widow of William Empson, was about to be married to John Morris. The pastor was to have performed the marriage ceremony, but he received a note forbidding the banns. Mrs. Empson brought suit against the supposed author of the note, alleging defamation, and called Enoch Doughtie as her witness. Says the court record:

Mr Enock Doughty Aged 22 years or thearabouts sworne and examined in open Court sayeth that hee saw a noate sent by Richard Watson to his father Mr Francis Doughtie to forbid the baines of Matrimonie betweene Elenor Empson and Any other Person for that she was his wife befor God this to the best of this deponants knowledg to bee the substance of the noat and further sayeth not.

The supposed author of the note came into court and stated that, being a blind man, he had to trust to the fairness of others in the writing of his messages, and that he disclaimed any interest in the widow's matrimonial affairs.

Giles Tomkinson summoned Mr. Doughtie before the court of March, 1662, for a debt of 300 pounds of tobacco. It was evidently settled out of court, for no more appears about it.

Thus far there is nothing in the court record to indicate clearly the denominational character of Mr. Doughtie's church. When the minister came from Virginia to Maryland the English republic was still in being and Anglican worship was illegal. On May 5, 1660, the republican period ended with parliament's order that henceforth all writs should run in the name of King Charles. With that act the adherents of the old worship saw its early recognition and revival assured. Such was the situation when the Charles County church was formed. In all probability the church was modelled after the modified Anglicanism of Virginia. It is at least certain that it adopted the vestry form of government so familiar in the Anglican system. In the court session of March, 1661-62, Edmund Lindsey, as church warden, sued to collect the parish dues of William Hills. The court entry reads thus:

To the Worshipfull Commissioners of Charleses Countie the humble Petition of Edmond Linsey sheweth That Whereas William Hills stands indebted unto your Petitioner one hundered and fiftie pounds of tob for which your petitioner Craveth an order of Court with Cost and Charge of suit

Clement Thoebals sworne and examined in open Court sayeth that william hils did say hee woold pay the minister and further sayeth not It is ordered that the sayd hils shoold pay the sayd Linsey 150 lb of tob: it being for the Minister and for the building of a Church with Cost and Charge of suit the sayd Linsey being a Church Warden therfor ordered unto him

Just what was the relation of the church project to the personal plans of the minister is not clear. It seems likely that he had already received a call elsewhere and that the plan for a building was an effort to hold him. If so, the effort failed. A court entry of April 22, only a few weeks after Lindsey's suit, shows that Doughtie had gone away.

The minister's two children remained in Charles County. Mrs. Mary Vanderdonck seems to have come with her father from Virginia and with him to have found a home in Charles County. Here she acquired repute as a healer of the sick, for which service she demanded good fees, and sometimes, when her patrons were reluctant debtors, she haled them to county court for due settlement of her claims. Beginning on April 22, 1662, the court record accords her the new name of Mrs. O'Neal, consequent on her recent marriage to Hugh O'Neal, planter, one of the active men of the county.

The reference to the minister's departure comes in a court suit. It seems that the bill of debt given to George Short in 1660 had never been fully paid. The original debt of 800 pounds of tobacco had been reduced to 400 pounds and then augmented to 450 pounds, and now Short wanted the balance. He complained to the court as follows:

To the Worshipfull Commissioners of Charles Countie The humble Petition of George Shorte Sheweth That Whereas Mr Francis Doughtie Minister stands indebted unto your petitioner by bill the sum of 450 lb of tob and Caske and the sayd Doughtie having absented himself and not being resident in this Province your Petitioner thearfor humbly desier your worships to grant him an Attachment for his iust debt with Cost and Charge and hee shall pray

The court heard the plea and, as in duty bound, ordered that an attachment be issued. To Enoch Doughtie now fell the task of guarding his father's interests. From the absent minister came a letter of attorney, prolix with legal verbiage, bearing date of June 4, 1662, and beginning thus:

Know all men by thees Presants that I Francis Doughtie now Minester of Rapahonnock Countie in Virginia doe authorise impower and intrust my trewly loving sone Enock Doughtie of Charles Countie in the Province of Mariland my trew and lawfull Atturney * * *

Incidentally it may be noted that one of the three subscribing witnesses was John Washington, ancestor of the Father of his Country.

Meanwhile the plaintiff George Short had advanced not at all in the seizure of the ministerial goods. The April court, it is true, had granted him an attachment, but the writ was in the hands of Sheriff James Lindsey and that gentleman somehow did not find time to serve the paper. So at the court of July 8 the plaintiff came again to plead.

To the Worshipfull Commissioners of Charleses Countie the humble petition of George Short sheweth that whearas your Petitioner the last Court obtained an attachment for six hundered pounds of tob dew to him by bill from Mr Francis Doughtie which hee delivered to Mr James Lendsey to sarve who by reason of sum urgent occasion hath as yet omitted the sarving of the sayd Attachment whearfor your petitioner humbly desiers your Worships to renew the sayd Attachment and hee shall as in dutie bound pray &c

Whearupon Mr Enock Doughtie Produced a letter of Atturney from his father and declareth in open Court that hee will answer all suits whatsever shal bee Commenced against him as his father Atturney and thearupon Craveth a referance and a stopage of the Proceedings untill the next Court which was granted him

And this is as far as old Liber A in its crabbed script carries the story of the ex-vicar of Gloucestershire. Bishop Meade, in his book on Virginia churches, adds a trifle to the story. Says he, "the only list of vestrymen in Rappahannock parish is that of the first vestry after its establishment under a minister by the name of Francis Doughty."

Maryland Dec^r^ 2^d^ 1749

S^r^

M^r^ Samuel Hyde in his Letter to me of the 30^th^ Day of May 1744 has the following paragraph.

The Insurers Expect your Affidavit to the Cost of the Goods lost and that it happened on the Voyage on which you Ordered the Insurance to be made. And to be as particular as you can in the time I have made them but they Expect faster proof.

In Consequence of the Question I sent M^r^ Hyde the Letter of which the Enclosed is a copy as also the Deposition annexed both by the Ships mentioned and you are sensible that Allingham got home Safe whether the Letters of the others did or not I cannot tell. Now what can I say further? M^r^ Carrington who was after my Loss in London offered M^r^ Hyde Satisfactory proof further but he told him he had Sufficient proof as you will see by the Inclosed Deposition made by him the said Carrington under Notaries Seal in Barbadoes And also that had the Corn got Safe it would have all Sold at Three Shillings and nine pence ℔ Bushell which would Amount to £337..11..3 whereas by the Damage it Sold but for £202..16..6¾.

If I had not Suffered Damage and Loss I had not Complained nor would I in small matters, I had often Insured and met Losses which I never did Apply for.

The very Charges for protest and Copies from Mr Carrington left with Mr Hyde and sent here on the Subject has Cost me at least Ten pounds Sterling.

If any farther proof than Mr Hyde has already had or the Inclosed be necessary Capt Scougall will be in London some time next Summer and will do what he therein may justly.

I desire nothing but what is fair and honest and it is hard if I cannot have that from Gentlemen with you in whose hands we trust our ffortunes, and upon whose Honour, Honesty and Integrity we Intirely rely.

I have been long out of the Satisfaction I ought to have, And for this Loss that the bare Difference between what my Corn sold for and what it would have Cleared will not make me whole by the amount of the Interest of the money, I sustained a loss for want of the Returne I should had in Case no Damage had happened.

The Difference of what the Corn sold at from what it would if no Damage is £134..14..8 or thereabouts.

In Order to avoid any Debates on Litigation if you can procure Mr John Hyde to give me Credit in his Brothers Account assigned Lord Baltimore for One Hundred and Ten pounds Sterling with the Interest from 1744 I will be Content. I think this a Reasonable Request, and sure he can oblige the Insurers to make good to him as he is Execr to his Brother and the Insurance made in his name.

I have said so much I may tire you on the Subject, sure Mr John Hyde has some of the Honest Virtue of his ffather? he will not join to oppress me, but will endeavour to do me Right as I have Suffered?

I am willing and Desirous to pay to a ffarthing, and more than is due to his Brother's Estate, or his Assignee Lord Baltimore on that account, but have Reason to Apprehend oppression I am not on a Level with that Lord, The Lord of Hosts will not oppress his people but use them with mercy Compassion and Tenderness, and Receive their and Each of their Addresses and not think it Inconsistent to make a return to their or any of their Prayers. How can I tell or say, when or where Mr Samuel Hyde made such Insurances as I wrote to him to make for me? he Charges me the premio and Charge of such Insurances, he therefore is my Insurer, is it not the same Case with your self and your ffiends here?

I could say much on such a Subject were I in Company with you or any other Gentleman, but at present think onely Refer to you, the Integrity of Mr John Hyde and what in Right ought to be.

P. S. If you can procure this matter settled relating to the Insurance and that the account stand as last sent me by Mr Samuel Hyde by Capt Biggs and Credit therein for my Loss in this Voyage I will Readily pay the Ballance to Lord Baltimore or Mr Hyde, this I desire you will propose to Mr Hyde.

I think if they Refuse this their aim is only to perplex and use me Ill.

To Mr William Black Merchant in London By Capt Judd and Capt Joy.

THE MARYLAND ANCESTRY OF JAMES MONROE.

By Monroe Johnson

Students of Maryland history and genealogy will be interested to learn that the Monroe family of Westmoreland County, Virginia, from which James Monroe was descended, had its origin in Maryland. So, if Maryland cannot, like her sister State of Virginia, boast of the honor of being the mother of the fifth President, she can at least claim to be the great-grandmother of that distinguished statesman.

President Daniel C. Gilman of Johns Hopkins University, who wrote the first comprehensive biography of President Monroe, frankly admitted that he had not been successful in tracing the pedigree of his subject. President Gilman did, however, refer to an old statement, which has since been found to be erroneous, that the first of the family in America was one Andrew Monroe, who came to Virginia after the defeat of the Royalist army in England, in which he held the rank of major. Based on this statement, the author of the Monroe Doctrine was, until recent years, thought to have come of Cavalier ancestry—the origin commonly, but mistakenly, attributed to the leading Virginia families. While Doctor Gilman was making his fruitless search among the Virginia archives for a description of the Monroe immigrant, a fairly complete account of him, strange to relate, lay hidden in the old Maryland records, directly under the eyes of the searcher.

More recent researches have disclosed that Andrew Monroe, the great-great-grandfather of President Monroe, arrived in Maryland about 1637, settling on Kent Island, where the turbulent William Claiborne had established a trading post several years before the Ark and the Dove, bearing Lord Baltimore's colonists, dropped anchor off Saint Mary's. The records are silent regarding the immigrant's European antecedents, but, since the name Monroe is a variant of the Scottish clan name Munro, he must have come from Scotland, or perhaps from Ulster in Ireland. Like many another Scottish Highlander of that day, he was unable to write and made his mark, when his signature was required.

The colonial records of Maryland show that Monroe commanded a pinnace, a small vessel, under Cuthbert Fenwick, general agent for Lord Baltimore. But when Richard Ingle, who has been variously described as a " pirate " and a "patriot," according to the political views of the historian, declared for Parliament and attempted to overthrow the Proprietary, Captain Monroe, a Protestant, joined Ingle in the Maryland rebellion, which was a miniature counterpart of the struggle then raging in England between Cavalier and Roundhead.

After the suppression of Ingle's revolt against the authority of the Calverts, Andrew Monroe took refuge across the Potomac in Westmoreland County, Virginia, where a land patent was issued to him in 1650. On this land President James Monroe was born in 1758—over a century after it had been granted to his first American ancestor.

It is interesting to note that Charles Tyler, the ancestor of President John Tyler, also left Maryland for Virginia, probably at the same time and under the same circumstances as Captain Monroe.

The descendants of Andrew Monroe and Elizabeth, his wife, became substantial citizens of the Northern Neck of Virginia, owning respectable estates and many slaves. Although the Monroes were prominent locally, being for several generations justices of the peace and officers in the militia, they did not occupy the same position in society as their wealthier neighbors, the Lees, Washingtons, Alstons and others, whose larger holdings entitled them to greater consideration both socially and politically.

In connection with the discarding of the tradition that the Monroes were of Cavalier stock, it is interesting to note that Thomas J. Wertenbaker in his "Patrician and Plebeian in Virginia" offers convincing evidence that the "first families of Virginia," so many of which are related by blood or marriage to prominent Maryland families, are, with only a few exceptions, derived from ancestors of the English merchant and, in some instances, yeoman classes. Despite the long-cherished belief in the Cavalier origin of these capable and cultured families, which have played such a prominent part in national affairs, Mr. Wertenbaker shows conclusively that the Virginia aristocracy was gradually developed on American soil instead of being transplanted, full-grown, from England, as so many historians have assumed.[1]

NOTES.

Maryland Records, Colonial, Revolutionary, County and Church, from original sources, by Gaius Marcus Brumbaugh, M. S., M. D., Litt. D. Volume II. Lancaster, Pa. 1928. $15.00. Pp. 688.

To those who own, or have used the first volume of this work, no introduction is necessary; but perhaps all classes of investigators may be best served by giving the table of contents in detail, rather than by more or less vague comment on the text, which is of course, practically all hitherto unpublished archive material.

Following the introduction will be found:

Marriage Records of Anne Arundel, Charles, Frederick, Montgomery, Washington, St. Mary's and Worcester counties, and Maryland and Delaware Marriages, 1789-1810.

The book contains 99 facsimile pages of important records. The index, covering 89 pages seems to be entirely adequate. Dr. Brumbaugh's work deserves the hearty support of genealogists and historians throughout the country. It has evidently been a labor of love, and it is very doubtful if the author will receive the manufacturing cost of the book, much less any return for the labor put into it.

COLONIAL RECORDS OF DORCHESTER COUNTY.

Contributed by Louis Dow Scisco

Dorchester is an Eastern Shore county dating from 1668. The present court house at Cambridge was completed in 1853, following the destruction of an older building in 1851 by fire. Fireproof construction has been provided for the quarters now occupied by the clerk of the court and the register of wills.

In the vault room of the clerk's office are kept the records commonly used for legal reference, together with the greater part of the volume records of earlier date. Filed court papers, in packages, extend from about 1820 to the present day. The volume records are clean and accessible. The older books show very little damage from the flight of time.

Years ago the accumulating records began to outgrow the capacity of the clerk's office. A separate small room used for storing ballot boxes now contains a quantity of unclassified material, partly in volumes. It has some colonial matter. A third record depositary is the tower room of the court house, reached by ladder. Covering the floor a foot or more deep and overflowing into an adjoining attic is a disordered mass of record material. Much of it consists of loose court papers. For the most part it is made up of late eighteenth and early nineteenth century records, but there is some colonial material in the mass.

The volume series of clerk's records began with successive books in which court minutes and deeds were intermingled, but very soon, probably in 1673, the clerks began to make a separation of the deeds, though frequently placing them in court record volumes. Since about 1745 the two classes of records have occupied separate books.

The deeds series as it now exists in the clerk's office seems to be nearly complete. Of the old court minute books there are only a few survivals. The colonial deed books are all in modern binding and are marked in a numerical series. It apppears that the first clerks used arbitrary letter combinations for volume titles until about 1743, when Clerk Howes Goldsborough began to mark the books with personal initials. These old letter markings were superseded for reference purposes when the volume numbers were imposed.

Liber No. 1, marked "1669-1683," is a volume of conveyances transcribed from one or two earlier record books. The copy was made probably in the early 18th century. Its 198 pages are regularly numbered. Pages 1-3 are index. Pages 4-100 carry deeds taken apparently from a former court book containing session minutes from March, 1669-70, to March, 1670-71. Pages 101-167 carry deeds recorded from about November, 1688, to April, 1692. Pages 167-176 carry a few papers recorded from about June to about September, 1675, probably being addenda in the above-mentioned court book. Pages 176-187 carry ten documents recorded from about March to about November, 1671, probably also addenda in the former book. Pages 187-198 carry ten papers dated in 1676, 1678, and 1683.

Liber No. 3, marked "1671-80," has fly-leaf entry identifying it as former Liber F B. Opposite pages bear like numbers, its 538 actual pages being numbered 1-269. Pages numbered 1-202 bear original entries of deeds recorded from about June, 1673, to about March, 1679-80. Pages numbered 203-269 are conveyances transcribed from an earlier court book covering about March, 1670-71, to about June, 1673.

Liber No. 4, marked "1679-89," is a conveyance record of 249 pages numbered regularly. It is written in many hands, and probably is a transcript. The book was first a merchant's account book and still has 22 unnumbered pages of accounts entered in 1679 to 1681. The deeds now contained in it were recorded from about March, 1679-80 to about August, 1689.

Liber No. 4½, marked "1689-92," is apparently an original record of alternating court minutes and conveyances. It is paged 1-201 in sequence by a modern hand, but its contents are in two sections. Pages 1-51 carry conveyances and a few probate entries recorded about August, 1690, to about November, 1691. Pages 52-62 carry court records of March to June, 1692. Reversing the book to the second section brings pages 197-201 with conveyances entered in 1690, pages 73-196 with court records of August, 1690, to March, 1692, and pages 62-73 with deeds recorded from March to June, 1692.

Liber No. 5, marked "1692-1701," has 472 actual pages numbered as 1-236 by opposites. Its contents are conveyances recorded from about November, 1692, to about August, 1702.

Liber No. 6, marked "1702-16," has fly-leaf entry of its former title I K No. 4. It has 549 actual pages, numbered 1-275. Its contents are conveyances recorded from about November, 1702, to about August, 1716.

Liber No. 7, marked "1716-9," carries conveyances with 186 actual pages numbered 1-93. Its contents were entered from about November, 1716, to about August, 1719.

Liber No. 8, marked "1720-32," has fly-leaf title P No. A. The first section of the book consists of 957 actual pages numbered 1-479 by opposites. These bear conveyances recorded from about February, 1721, to June, 1732. From November 26, 1723, onward the clerks followed the rule of appending the date of record of each document. The second section of the book, reversed, has 294 pages of court records for the sessions of August, 1728, to August, 1729.

Liber No. 9, marked "1732-38," has 551 pages of conveyances, regularly numbered. Inside notation gives H F-9 as the former title. Contents were recorded from July, 1732, to August, 1738.

Liber without title and with one cover missing is not part of the deeds series. It is a court register of 430 pages with session records from August, 1733, to June, 1734.

Liber No. 10 of deeds, marked "1738-44," is pages 1-422 and contains entries from November, 1738, to October, 1744. A duplicate page 1 carries the official bond of Howes Goldsborough, clerk, dated 1738.

Liber No. 11 of deeds, marked "1740-4," has two sections. The first, paged 1-141 carries court bonds for the session of March, 1742-43. The second section, paged 1-264, carries deeds recorded from July, 1740, to February, 1743-44.

Liber No. 12 of deeds, marked "1743-5," has fly-leaf notation H G as title, the initials of Clerk Goldsborough. It has two sections. Pages 1-241 contain deeds recorded from May, 1743, to January, 1745-46, followed by pages 241-261 carrying commissioners' decisions on property bounds in 1745. A second section, paged 1-314 carries court records of August, 1742, to November, 1743.

Liber No. 13, marked "1745," has inside title notations of F T and of H G-13. Deeds recorded from in 1746 make up the first section, paged 1-24. Reversed, the book shows pages 1-482 of court records from June, 1744, to November, 1745, followed by pages 483-491 of miscellany.

Liber No. 14, marked "1745-53," has fly-leaf title I C No. 1, the initials of Clerk John Caile. The volume is a modern transcript, certified in 1854. It has 740 pages of deeds recorded from April, 1746, to November, 1753.

Liber No. 15, marked "1753-58," has fly-leaf title I C No. 10. Contents are 560 pages of conveyances recorded from November, 1753, to March, 1758.

Liber without title, in parchment binding, is a court register of 464 pages carrying session minutes from November, 1754, to June, 1755.

Liber No. 16, marked "1758-9," is a conveyance record of 273 pages with entries recorded from February, 1758, to November, 1759.

Liber No. 17, marked "1760-1," has 459 pages of conveyances recorded from November, 1759, to September, 1762.

Sir:

As I went from Baltimore last April I was taken by a privateer in ye Bay & sent to New York where I was tryed and acquited ab^{t} ye end of July; as soon as I cou'd supply myself with necesaries for my voyage to Providence I left N York but unfortunately in my pasage met with a N^{o} Carol^{a} Privateer who took and put me on Shore at George town, S^{o} Carol^{a} (where & at a Gentleman's plantat^{n} of my acquaintance near Camden I have been ever since) and carried my Sloop to N^{o} Carol^{a} for condemnation. Soon after my landing I was attackt by an Autumnal Fever which render'd me unable to come to Maryland as I intended till my Health was reestablisht which did not happen till the year was so far spent that I durst not undertake so great a journey in the dead of Winter & there has been no opportunity of geting a pasage by water, the ports having been blockt up by ye Enemy, that there is no trade; As soon as I can get a conveyance I will set out for Maryl^{d}, where I hope to arrive before the first of March, please God to spare my Health; but shoud that not happen to be the case I hope no steps will be taken to confiscate my Estates as I have never been out of America since I left Maryl^{d} nor within the British Lines since Aug 5 that I left N York, therefore hope it can't be thought y^{t} my Estates are liable to confiscation; On my arrival I hope to give you sufficient proof that I dont come under the Act.

I am chagrined for giving your Excellency this trouble but I hope the necesity will plead my excuse. I am

Feb. 16 1782.

Sir

I did myself ye pleasure of writing to your excellency 18 ulto informing you yt I was taken on this coast returning to New Providence on 23 of Aug. & yt I've been here on Parole ever since, yt soon after I was taken I was seiz'd with a fever & it was so late in ye year before my Health was reastablisht yt I durst not attempt so long a Journey, but as soon as ye Weat^{r} will permit me I'll set out; I shd come sooner if I cd have got a pasage by Water, but y^{t} cd not be got. As I have never been out of America I hope my Estate can't be confiscated. The only reason yt prevented me from coming is want of cash wch is not to be got; ye English & ye Tories having plundered ye Gentlemen of all they had so yt I must be under ye necessity of sending to Charlestown to get cash there, wch by ye asistance of ye Gentleman with whom I am, I hope to get, which will enable me to come to Maryland wch I shall as soon as I can meet with a Magistrate to take ye oaths, wch will be in abt 10 days at furthest, this I hope you'll think sufficient to stop ye confiscatn.

I have enclosed you a Certificate from Mr. Huger who has know me ever since 1776 at N Providence, by wch you'll find yt I've alway been a Friend to Amer^{ca} & ye only reason yt preventing taking ye oaths was ye fear of loosing my estate in Engld therefore I hope it will be kept as secret as it can be on yt acct?

I hope your Excellency will excuse this as it is wrote in haste.

wherein I informed you, that I was taken by a New York Privateer in Cheesapeak Bay as I was returning from Maryl^{d} to N. Providence & carryed to N york where I was acquited by ye Court of Admiralty ab^{t} end of July; after geting hands (for all mine where taken out by ye Privateer) I sailed Aug. 5 for N Providence but had ye misfortune to fall in with a N^{o} Carol^{a} Privateer wch took me & brought me to George town S^{o} Car^{a} Aug. 23; soon after my arrival I was seiz'd with an Autumnal fever wch I never perfectly recover'd till ye Middle of Dec, wch hinder'd me coming to Maryl^{d} as I at first proposed & to go by water was imposible no trade being carried on yt way; As soon as I can get leave to quit this place (for I am a Prisoner on Parole) & get some cash (for there is none in ye Country every one having been plundered by ye tories of all they had) I'll set out for your state. I have enclosed a Certificate of my having taken ye oaths to the United States, which I hope you'll think is all yt is neccesary to stop ye Confiscation of my Estates; but I hope your Excellency will be so good to let it remain as much a secret as the nature of ye thing will admit, for shd it be known, I am much afraid it will be ye means of my forfeiting my Estates in England. To His Excell^{y} Thom Sims Lee Governor of Maryland

Frederick town March 15th 1782

Sir:

As British prisoners of War we apprehend we are entitled to safety & protection from the Government of this State, where it is our lot at present to remain, against popular insults & abuse of our persons & property while we behave & demean ourselves with circumspection which it has been our care and study to do to all persons in & around this place—But as we have the greatest reason to complain of the most outrageous & atrocious insults and abuse offered to our persons and property of late by some people in & about this town while we were enjoying ourselves quietly & inoffensively in our lodgings, We are moved to make our applications to you as the chief Magistrate for such Order about the past, & that safety & protection for the future, as the nature of our condition may seem to require upon the following relation of facts as they have occurred.

On Sunday night the 10th of this present month as we Leu^{t} Clark & Dr. Gray British prisoners on parol, were sitting in our rooms in company with three German officers who had come to visit us, about 10 o'clock at night we were to our great surprise alarmed by having the front & back doors of our lodging violently forced open & upon our servants hearing the noise, & one of them running hastily to the door, he was instantly knocked down with a firelock, & immediately a crowd of men with arms, firelocks and fixed bayonets rushed into our room with a Doctor Adam Fisher of this town at their head or as their Conductor who then gave orders to seize both of us—upon which we desired to know the reason of such behavior & by whose Order & authority he & his Company thus acted—to which Dr. Fisher replied " take out the Scoundrels & I will answer for so doing " or words to that effect upon which we produced and showed a Certificate or agreement with the owner of the house, renting it to us at the rate of two Guineas per month, telling Him farther that we woud not go out of the house unless forced; upon which Dr. Fisher gave his orders to drag us out instantly which was complied with without giving us time to secure our effects or to see them taken care of; & as they were lying loose about the rooms, some articles are missing particularly a silver table spoon which lay on the table when we were assaulted—Dr. Fischer then forced us to Gov^{n} Johnson's House & a Gent coming to the door, told him He would have nothing to do in the matter—we were then forced away to Dr. Thomas's House who is said to be the County Leu^{t} who said he knew not how to act, but advised us not to return to our lodging that night lest we might receive more harm & damage—We were then turned out in the street in a very bad night, & when most of the families had retired to rest, for it was then about eleven or past—Next day we were informed by the three Gent we left in our house, that as soon as we were gone they were attacked, beat, & abused by a party who took possession of it, brought in by a Michael Tressler who said the House was his tho we had rented & posest of it for twelve weeks before of another whose right it is—We have farther to add that one Mim said to be an officer of the Guard & who seemed to command the party by whom we were attacked treated us with the most opprobrious & black guard language which would only defile our pen to relate—At last we were directed & applied to Mr. Jacob Young one of the Magistrates in Town, who issued his warrant for apprehending & bringing Dr. Fisher before him but Mr. Fischer as contemning & undervaluing his authority & seeming to call for farther aid & asistance for his farther purposes set upon public an advertisement of which the following is a Copy—

Fredericktown March 12, 1782

" I the subscriber give notice to true Americans in generall " that I was this day arrested by Nicholas Heissler with a peace " warrant sworn against me by two British officers prisoners on " parole their oath taken & warrant granted by Justice Jacob " Young and desires the Constable in the warrant that I must " bring sufficient security as is or may be wanted of me by the " prisoners or Mr. Young—I hope you'll asist me in it as my " dependance is still for the rights of Maryland in America."

" Signed " Adam Fischer.

To his Excellency Thos. Simm Lee Esq. Governor of the State of Maryland & his Honourable Council, The Petition of Thos. Robertson practitioner of Phisick & Surgery in Somerset County humbly sheweth that—

Whereas by an Act of Assembly enabling the Comm^{rs} of their Respective Counties to chuse Collectors of the Assessment for last Spring 1780 the Comm^{rs} for Somerset did besides others elect your Petitioner for Anemesex District, who also refused it, for which supposed neglect, The Court has since issued a Writt for the Penalty annexed in the said Law. 1. Your petitioner did not think himself capable of collecting it, by reason of the Poverty of the people & their aversion to pay; 2. Your petitioner lived on a River exposed to the Resentment of the Enemy & Disaffected persons without any protection. 3. Your petitioner having been a Practitioner of Phisick & Surgery for near twenty years in the County & educated to these Employs, to the Knowledge of the Commissioners, did think that such profession exempted him as it ever used to do from being saddled with such petty offices; as supposed to be more usefull in such profession to the publick, thus also the Assembly seemed to think in a later Assesment Act. 4. That having a large family to support & being defrauded of above two thousand pounds good money by Knavish Debtors paying in a depreciated currency which no Assembly since has been just enough to compell these Legal Sharpers to make Restitution; your Petitioner is under a Necessity of strictly minding his own business to support such family. 5. That as the Assembly did think fit to send down one hundred men to collect such tax, this was repealing the penalty of that law as far as concerned this District, as it would be a most inglorious fraud to fine one man for not doing the work which the same Assembly allowed would require one hundred, or to fine any man for not giving Security in a sum equal to the portion of a German Princess for doing what neither he, the People, nor the same Assembly thought him capable of. 6. That your Petitioner having been an Early & a constant opposer of a brittish taxation, an advocate for the Liberties of North America & for justice in the Legislature, hopes that your Excellency & your Honourable Council from the Duties you owe Human Nature, your Country, & the Inhabitants of this State in particular, will suppress so fraudulent & tyrannical a Prosecution by granting a Noli Prosiqui & sending it to the Prosecutor of this County & your Petitioner as in duty bound will ever pray.

A MARYLAND MEDICAL STUDENT AND HIS FRIENDS.

[The following correspondence is taken from the remains of the letter book of Dr. Richard Hopkins, which has been presented to the Society by Miss Irene Harmon, of Elkridge, Md.

Richard Hopkins, the son of Johns Hopkins, Sr. [1720-] and his third wife Elizabeth Thomas (dau. of Samuel and Mary (Snowden) Thomas) was born March 2, 1762. [Thomas Book, 354]. But little seems to be known of Dr. Hopkins career, and Dr. Cordell in his Medical Annals of Maryland records that he was a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, 1785 (?) and one of the Founders of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland. "He was very eccentric and had the reputation of effecting some miraculous cures. He died about 1830-35, at a great age."

From the letter to his mother, dated Jan. 7, 1784, in which he says "I must quit this part of the world as soon as my education is finished, which will be in the Spring," it would appear that he received his diploma in 1784. The letter giving the account of his graduation is only a fragment, and undated, but from internal evidence his Alma Mater was unquestionably the University of Pennsylvania.

He married Hannah Hammond and had several children. In the letter book there is a long lament, dated 1830, on the death of one of his daughters, who died at the age of 26.

It is interesting to learn that in spite of the heavy handicap of serious ill health "he died at a great age."—EDITOR.]

Philadelphia, [date illegible but probably June 1782 or 3.]

Dear Waters

I have oft heard that a Friend in need is a friend indeed, and therefore to test you on that score is the purport of my communication to you by pen Ink and paper, for you must know that unadvisedly and precipitately I have got myself into a Dilemma, and am about to importune you to extricate me. Our mutual friend Doct^{r} Hartly you know for a year or two past has been resident in the Hospital as Apothecary and Superintendent of the sick, to compound medicine and see it administered, and as Hartly had signified to me his intention of quitting his said appointment and to go to Carolina for the purpose of establishing himself in the Practice of Medicine and being desirous of doing me a favour, he recommended the Place to me, and had proposed my Name to the Trustees and Managers of the Hospital and as most of them were personally known to me, they unanimously gave me the appointment—And now behold you my Master Professor Kuhn has his Bristles up about it—What, says he, leave my office so abruptly and your time with me not expired, besides says He I wish you to complete your education under me—and that I may have some Credit when you leave my office with your Diploma in your pocket—Besides says he, the Hospital is a very disagreeable place and very troublesome and very confining to you, therefore you had better resign, and says he, I have spoken to the Managers that your appointment was contrary to my knowledge or approbation. I therefore mean to resign but had I continued the appointment I should have been free of a heavy and expensive Board and Doct^{r} Hartly says that he had a considerable Practice around the Hospital and suburbs of the City which got him considerable pocket money—and I am still of opinion that I ought not to give up my appointment, as it might be the means of paving my way to Business in the City should I be desirous of continuing here hereafter—Yet tis true that what with the disagreeable task of dressing wounds and sore legs and the trouble with the Mad Folks, their Noises through the Night and the rattling of their Chains—and the room in which I have to sleep hung round with skeletons suspended with wires, and creaking as the Wind blows through the windows—all which is so different from the stillness I have been used to I am therefore in a feverish hurry to be rid of it—Therefore do my friend let me nominate you to the Board of Managers and take the appointment off my hands, and as I have mentioned to Doct^{r} Kuhn that I wou'd get you to take the appointment he has promised to recommend you to the Board—As the Managers meet tomorrow you must then and there apply and oblige yrs &c

Rich^{d} Hopkins.

[No date]

Dear Hopkins

I have just received yours, and while I was sympathizing with your distress occationed by your late promotion, for the soul of me I cannot restrain my risible muscles, and so anxious am I to relive the distresses of my fellow beings and of you in particular, which I shall evidence by my personal appearance before the Board on Tomorrow, and shou'd I get the appointment I shall waive every disagreeable Idea of trouble, of waiting on the sick or even dressing the sores, the Clanking of Chains has no terrors for me, neither will the creaking of dry bones frighten me or banish Sleep from my eye lids—And therefore the Pangs like unto a woman in travail that you seem to be labouring under shall soon end in you and terminate in a new Birth to me and joy and honour encircle the Brows of your friend and fellow labourer in the paths of Science.

N. B. Waters.

Feby 10th 1783.

Dear Dick

I have taken this opportunity of communicating a few lines to thee to let thee know I am still in Being and Blest with Health, hoping these may find thee enjoying the same. Our Father continues poorly and looks very thin. I understand thee is so taken up with thy studies that thee seldom speaks to anybody in conversation. I am supprised at it—or is it Sally L.....y's pretty face that is the cause. I had the pleasure of seeing her ladyship a few days ago, she is very well and often talks of her Doctor—As to news old uncle John Snowden is to be married in a few days to Cousin Rachel Hopkins, and matrimony seems strongly imbibed in some of our youngsters. for my part I have postponed the thoughts for a while. I often think what pleasure thee might enjoy in the agreeable society of the female sex in the polite circles in Philadelphia and I shou'd be glad to be with thee to share with thee.

I therefore conclude with wishing thee Health and Happiness, while I remain thy ever loving Brother

Samuel Hopkins.[1]

South River May 27th 1783.

Dear Cousin/

I was very sorry to hear of your indisposition or any accident that should befall you but as I am certain you are engaged in a Study that will greatly add to your knowledge and Welfare hereafter—For Learning has in all ages been accounted as a pleasant and useful Study and we meet but few examples of great Men either in active or still life that has not discovered a particular attachment to it and indeed we cannot conceive a more agreeable employment for the mind when fatigued with a multiplicity of affairs or willing to taste the pleasures of a retired life than to unbend itself in the company of the Muses—but the study of Books dont do alone. A man must have politeness and good breeding, otherwise his learning will never please—therefore a little Chesterfieldian politeness is essentionally necessary. you should therefore learn the art and genteel accomplishment of dancing—an accomplishment no young Gentleman shou'd be without—it gives him an easiness in his behaviour and a genteel address—and I hope when I see you again you will be capable of entering and leaving a room with grace and ease and let your Company be frequently in the Company of the ladies you will with them acquire good manners and gentility—I remain dear Dick Your Philadelphia, Jany 7th 1784.

My Dear Mother

Thee in thy last letter to me by J. Howell informed me of thy having receiv[d] but two letters from me since thee saw me, [1] b. 3 Feb. 1759; d. 9 Feb. 1814.

which supprised me much as there were two others thee shou'd have receiv[d] and I am disappointed in the confidence I reposed in those to whom they were entrusted. Thee still reminded me of faithful diligence in the prosecution of my studies, but so far from requiring a stimulus, my too close application to a multiplicity of reading by my having access to a library of twenty thousand volumes which has so far weakened my health and constitution, and such constant pouring over Books in a bended posture that has brought on a pain in the Breast which has produced a spitting of blood which seems to threaten a consumptive tendency, which is somewhat alarming considering my Dear Father was consumptive, therefore there is the greatest necessity for the restoration of my health that I relax somewhat from hard study, and that I enjoy Country air. I have had offers for getting into business here in Philadelphia by entering into partnership with a fellow Collegiate but the insufficiency of my Patrimony and my ill health forbids. This threatened consumption has overturned all my towering prospects. I must therefore quit this part of the World as soon as my education is finished, which will be in the Spring, when I have to undergo a severe examination before the Trustees of the Colledge previous to my publick exhibition for the getting a Diploma in the Colledge which requires a severe scrutiny of the qualifications of the Candidate. Upon my mentioning the subject of my graduating to my old Master Professor Kuhn, he tells me that if I do not head the Class of Candidates, he shall be mortifyed and disappointed, which spurs me on to diligence at the expence of my Health. I shall therefore meet the examiners with some degree of confidence no ways abashed or afraid of any interrogatories that can be put to me by the board of examiners. But previous to my gaining those Collegiate honours I shall have to expend a few more guineas in addition to the number already laid out for my education, which etiquette and cupidity has established into a law in this Seminary of Learning. But I trust it is Money well laid out, for Wisdom is justifyed of her children, and is far before riches, and the wise Man enjoins us to get Wisdom and Knowledge and in our getting to get understanding. Peradventure Riches and Honour may follow, therefore with Learning stowed in my Head, and the gentle Virtues in my Heart and my Diploma in my pocket with a weak and sickly habit of body I am about to enter on the great Drama of the World, and as I roam through this wide world I can discern not one spot that I can call my own. Still I dispond not and this consolation even now chears and animates me to Hope and Confidence that some hidden Good is in store for me, for Holy Writ has said by one of her wise ones that he had been young and that then he was old, yet (said he) never have I seen the righteous forsaken nor his seed Begging Bread. These are the consolations that chears my inmost Soul, and sends me back with fresh alacrity to my Studies. And I feel a peace and Calm in my Soul that the major part of the World knows not off being that peace of conscience arising from a consciousness of my never having led a life of immorality, tho I have been occasionally led astray by evil Company, but soon have I shook them off, for Vice to be shun'd needs but be seen, and I esteem it a blessing that I do not encourage those perturbations of mind that lead to disquietude and shall quietly await my fate, whether for prosperity or adversity, and with a watchful eye will look for that tide in the affairs of Men which if taken at the full leads on to fortune. But if I am doom'd to be stranded on the shoals and quicksands of this life and must undergo the obloquy of a frowning World, still Virtue be thou my guide, give me an heart willing to do good to my fellow mortals here below that I may enjoy a sun shine in my breast, and tho my soul is in the labyrinth of intricacy respecting my future destination and like the Dove sent from the Ark knows not where to rest the soal of her foot, yet still like that Dove may I return again shou'd I have strayed from that ark of safety that will convoy me safe to a haven of safety and rest, and seeing I have no earthly Father to guide and protect me, yet those many admonitions that flowed from his life even now croud upon my recollection and melts my soul to tenderness and filial affection. And corresponding rills of affection is even now streaming from my weeping eyes towards a Mother who is so worthy of reguard. From thy Dutiful son,

Rich[d] Hopkins.

The Trustees of the Colledge having appointed a day for the meeting of the Candidates in the Colledge Hall, twelve Candidates appeared of which two were from Maryland to wit George Buckhannan [2] of Baltimore and myself. When I entered the room I took my seat about the middle of the Group, and when we arose up for examination the several Candidates of themselves, that were above me, of their own accord took their stand below me, and consequently left me at the head—therefore I was the first to Undergo examination which circumstance seem'd to gratify my Master Professor Kuhn, for when I had mentioned to him a little time before of my intention of graduating, he gave me good encouragement and moreover remarked to me that he should be both mortifyed and disappointed if I did not appear as the head of the Class of the Medical students.

Being first examined in the latin language after which we were examined in Natural Philosophy by the Provost of the College Doctor Euen, and in the different branches of Medicine by Professors Kuhn, Ruysh, Shippen and Hutchinson. The following week we underwent a publick examination and the first week in June the Ceremony of conferring Degrees took place amid a very great concourse of the Citizens and I now have my Diploma signed by all the above Professors and shall leave here in a few days, but very reluctantly, for still ill health, bloody spittings almost every morning still pursues me and threatens consumption. The Physicians advise my immediate retirement and to try the salubrity of the Country air, and indeed they seem to have but slender hopes of my recovery. But to return home and die among my relations—notwithstanding all which my mind seems bouy'd up neither does Despondency unnerve me still that Cordial Hope—which so deceives and cheats us of our expectancy, doth chear and animate me and keep me out of the Gulph of Dispair. Thus circumstanced I shall return among you to the place of my Nativity—when Time will determine my further destination—and yet I feal much anxiety of mind when I contemplate spending my life confined to the narrow limits of a Neighbourhood to be rusticated among unlettered and unpolished rustics. Then farewell thou Seminary of Learning. Adieu my fellow Collegiates—what avails it now that I be deep learned and be the pride of Schools, for much learning and much pouring over Books is but wearisomeness of flesh. Then adieu, adieu, and I go with naught but my Diploma in my Pocket, and I may roam through this wide World without calling one spot thereon my own. Therefore without Health, without Wealth, I throw myself on the wide world—my destiny being wrapped up in the darksome Womb of time—come then resignation and with thy oblivious Balm steep my senses into calmness and content—for Man wants but little here below nor wants that little long. This then being my present frame of mind I conclude thy loving son with a title to my name thus or Bachelor of Medicine. But, Ah, what hath the above title Cost. Count it not, for the bodies loss is the minds Gain os homini sublime dedit et jussit ad sidera tollere vultus which may be englished thus—that God formed the faces of Beasts to look groveling towards the Earth—but he formed the face of Man to look erect towards the Stars and to contemplate the Heavens and thus it is that earthly affections loads the Soul with Guilt while Heavenly contemplations purifies and exalts and enobles the Mind of Man.

To Dr Stuber of Philadelphia

Worthy friend and fellow Student. I have the afflicting news to communicate to you that my spitting of blood has returned upon me with increas'd violence. The morning after

I had taken my leave of you I set out for my Native State and Home with a mind much perplexed with anxiety and sollicitude, but as I travel'd on my mind regained a calmness and chearfulness, and by the time I had reached Baltimore my mind enjoyed high Glee for the news had reached that place and was published in the news papers that I had Graduated with eclau in the Pennsylvania University and it was consoling to me that I was received with evident marks of respect and attention by all my former associates and acquaintances—but by the misplaced kindness of my Friends I was induced to intemperance in eating and Drinking more than my sickly and feeble frame cou'd bear with safety, the consequence of which was that the day after I had reached my Home a most profuse Hemorrhage from my lungs was the consequence, which so much enfeebled my poor sickly frame, that an irregular Hectic fever and the spitting of a greenish seedy matter from my lungs every morning attended me for several months that I was reduced to Skeleton appearance and emaciation. Twas now that I anticipated speedy dissolution and indeed such a degree of calmness resignation and preparation to meet the grim King of terrors attended the state of my mind at this time that Death in some degree had lost its terrors and the frequent and fervent prayer of my Soul at the throne of Heavenly Grace was that I might depart and I fealt a willingness from the conviction that as I had generally speaking, led a life of innocency and hard study and had studiously avoided evil company and dissipation, that my mind about this time was much engaged in mental prayer of soul and in expostulation with the Almighty that he would remove me hence, as I had fears that shou'd my life be farther spared and Health and spirits return that I might be induced to follow vain and fashionable pursuits and might be led into snares into levity and sinfulness, for much I feared that I might never be again in such a state of preparation, but it pleased the Father of Mercies in his good Providence to restore me to health and Strength, and lamentable to tell, the return of Health and Strength verifyed my fears for by mixing with the World from the nature and the Calls of my Profession as a Practitioner of Medicine I was led as it were by imperceptible degrees into levity of Mind, fashionable amusements and a conformity to the World and its customs which soon banished the Heavenly Communion I had been wont to indulge on a Bed of languishing—yet still at times was my mind brought low from being sensibly convicted of ingratitude to the Giver of every good and perfect Gift—which was oft stifled by the habit of mixing with the world and its fascinations—and the Talent that been given me I had buryed and hid—and my Master's Will I had moreover neglected therefore have I been beaten with many stripes. And is there not my friend somewhat in the Study and profession of Physick that hardens the Heart and blunts religious impressions, for by being so constantly conversant with Death, with misery and scenes of distress that the mind hardens and acute sensibility is blunted, yet still to the Honor of the Medical Character, Humanity, Charity and Philanthropy in a good degree attaches to their Character I am informed that our fellow Collegiate Doctor Macsparran that was formerly so bold and open in his Deistical notions has been met with in a bed of sickness and that he has had to cry aloud upon a Saviour which he was wont to deride when in health and with his latest breath he cryed aloud to for forgiveness. His penitence it is to be hoped got him forgiveness even at the 11th hour—so true it is that Men may live fools but can they die such. You also remember Dehart, a young man of talents and seemingly amiable qualities how he delighted to boast of his unbelief, but in walking down Arch street one evening after our debating society had broke up, as he was talking in his usual strain, I suddenly checked him with these words, My dear Sir, hold and attentively consider what you are about, for remember that the lord Jesus Christ has said that they who deny him in this World the same he will deny in the next, and farther consider what is it you can gain from unbelief—and consider what you may looze, now weigh the Gain and the loss in the balance, and afterwards seriously reflect—He was so startled at this reply that he paused and suddenly left me. He afterwards told me he was determined never more to Doubt. More anon. While I conclude with good wishes for your health and prosperity.

R^d^ Hopkins.

Philadelphia, 1785.

Dear Hopkins:—

Give me leave to inform you that many Months had illaps'd from the time you left us that my mind was tortured with anxiety on your account, before we received any intelligence of you, more than that you had a return of your Hemoptysis with increas'd degree of violence and that you was in a low state of health and indeed my anxiety was redoubled by the alarming fears that you had taken your departure and had cross'd the Stygian ferry, until I receiv'd the agreeable news from Dr. Stokes that you was still in the land of the living, and that your health seem'd to improve, and that you had began the Practice of Medicine. At the desirable news my Heart leap'd for joy, and Hope animated me to anticipate your speedy recovery to good health, that greatest of temporal blessings Mortals enjoy in this transitory state, and surely cou'd my own prayers, conjoyned with a number of others your fast friends shou'd any thing avail your health wou'd soon be restored, but similar am I in regard to ill health for the constant pouring over Books has much enfeebled my own feeble frame, naturally spare and delicate, neither is it in my power to obviate it, as my future dependance rests on my mental acquirements and my ambition to mount to the summit of literary attainment goads me on, and my friends are urgent with me to quit the further study of Physick and to commence the study of the law and I have been overperswaded and am about commencing—and considering the length of time it usually requires before a young Physician can attain to any degree of eminence, which consideration has determined me in favour of the Law—and surely if Dame Nature has given me talent the practice of the Law will give me a greater opportunity of eliciting. Your old Master Professor Kuhn seeams rejoyced to hear you are in a fair way of recovery, but says he, I am much mistaken if he is not actually consumptive and much I fear his recovery will be only temporary, and shou'd he attempt the Practice of Physick in the Country as there is so much riding in the Night in Country Practice, the first deep cold that he gets much I apprehend that his consumptive complaint will return upon him, and he has desired me to warn you accordingly. Therefore write to me speedily and transmit to me some agreeable intelligence of your state and condition and console your quondam friend and fellow student in the same office. I write this from the same old table whereon you have lean'd by the hour pouring over physical jargon, metaphysical jargon and in fact almost all the jargon of the Scools, three several years. May long life and prosperity make you some amends for the arduous study which has laid the foundation of your ill health—but riches belong not to the adept of this world—let us therefore tho' low in purse let us endeavour to be rich in wisdom, in knowledge, and if not bless'd in time we may ere long in a blessed eternity. Yrs Henry Stuber. In continuation.

As the Person that is going to your part of the World dont set off he informs me for several days to come, I have again taken up my pen in further communication to you. It is not one hour past that I had been to visit a Patient labouring under that shocking disease called the Tetanus, with Opistotorus, this deplorable case caused me many serious reflections on the many and variety of sufferings mortal flesh is heir to in this sublunary world, and I thought the consideration was enough to wean us in a great measure from this fleeting world. Surely methinks it true that this world is probationary, and a passport to another and a better and where there is neither misery, pain or sickness—and surely methinks also that the great business of our living in this world is the study how best to get out of it and happy is he who can finish his course with joy and preparation. Such reflections as these serves to wean me from the love of this fading world, and teaches me to despise folly, idleness and sloth and to shun those vices and vanities that corrupt the bulk of the inhabitants of the world, and turning my back upon these votaries of pleasure, give me to contemplate the wisdom displayed in the Creation and the courses of the Stars to know—and to contemplate how wonderfully and fearfully we are made, and as we progress in our studies to know how little can be known for the best study for Man is the study of Man and the summit of all we need to know is Know thyself—and we are thence led to know that Pride was not made for Man. Adieu, Adieu, once more adieu.

Yours till Death,

Henry Stuber.

Philadelphia [1785?]

Dear Hopkins

You must prepare to hear news that I know must ring your heart with sorrow for our mutual friend Stuber has closed his eyes upon this scene of things in the sublunary world. His expanded Soul with the wings of a Dove is travelling to a world of rest—even now the mounrful sound of yonder Bell with its dolesome knell salutes my ears announcing his departure, his lamented remains in a few hours will be deposited in that narrow House appointed for all Living—his thirst for literary attainments, his indefatigable and unremitted application first with the Classic Authors—then in Medical pursuits and at length to the study of Law after writing the life of Dr. Franklin and while he was translating a German author in to the English language, his delicate and gentle Soul, cou'd no longer suspend itself in its tabernacle of Clay and having quit its tenement his body is left to dissolve to its first elements and we who he has left behind to mourn his loss we who know him well will feal all the poignancy of Grief and you my friend who he loved so well, will sympathize with me in grief sincere—and as I go to pay the last sad Duty to his remains will sighing say Alas poor Stuber. Lamenting this his early fate my heaving breast choaks further utterance and I drop my pen.

The above news of my friend Stuber's Death was sudden, was unexpected, and I fealt it in all its force, and while my mind was thus burdened with sympathetic sorrow my heaving Breast poured forth the following Syloloquy—Alas poor Stuber—who fell a Martyr in the unremitting pursuit of literature his feeble body sunk under the pressure of intense application—and thus sunk this amiable youth, of manners mild a demeanor delicate and gentle—

Thus early in life this noble youth resigned his breath
And much lamented has sunk in to the arms of death his Mortal part is compress'd into a clod
His better part is wafted before the presence of his God
On a bed of languishing he lays his body down and dies
His etherial Spirit has winged its flight far beyond the Skies
Thy temper mild thy affections even
Thou art gone to taste the joys of heaven
This happy exchange is to thee great gain
While cares, diseases and pain perplex us here below
And as I cherish thy memory dear
Shall embalm that memory with a tear.

PEOPLE OF EARLY CHARLES COUNTY.

Contributed by Louis Dow Scisco.

The recent completion of a detailed index to the Society's photostat copy of Liber A of the Charles County court records makes it possible to give the following epitome of personal references in the old record book. This liber was originally a mercantile account book and it still retains six pages of the accounts entered in it by its first owner. Apparently he was some trader in Barbadoes, or possibly Bermuda, for the commodities in which he dealt are such as belong to the West Indies, rather than to Maryland. The last of these account entries was made in 1651. Seven years later the book was certainly in Maryland. Clerk George Thompson began the entry of Charles County records on June 1, 1658, and was yet the clerk when the final entries were made in December, 1662. With exception of some months in 1660 when Thomas Lomax was clerk the entire liber is in Thompson's handwriting. Both clerks used the old-time script, which is to-day unreadable to the average person. The people who are mentioned in the following list were for the most part actual residents of the county, but with them appear absentee land owners, transient river traders, visiting collectors and creditors, merchants of the adjacent county, and witnesses of papers executed outside the county.

GENEALOGICAL NOTES ON THE EMORY FAMILY OF MARYLAND.

December, 1927.

The ancestors of the present Emory and Amory families of America were the same and for many generations prior to 1700 were residents and land owners in the adjoining counties of Somerset and Devon and Gloucester in England. Early local records also indicate a branch of the family in Essex about 1634.

The present name of Emory-Amory was, so far as can be determined, originally Amauri, in France, about the 12th century, and during a period of about three hundred years the spelling of the name was changed to D'Amorie, Amorie, D'Amory and about 1600 became Amory and Emory.

Regardless of the several variations in spelling by certain generations of the family, which was characteristic of that period, the pronunciation of the name as Em-ory has remained the same since the very earliest times. In this connection it is interesting to note the following extract from a letter dated May 15, 1731, Bristol, England, to Thomas C. Amory of Boston, from a cousin, a Mrs. Julia O'Connor: "I have some papers in my hand wch cou'd give you light wch is your right in the county Kerry whither I am bound soon from this place (Bristol) where I have been about a fortnight and have been making inquiry of some of yr relations, the Emorys, for so they write their name, about yr estate in Somersetshire and they tell me it is in very good condition . . . . " Page 106-107 (The Descendants of Hugh Amory, 1605-1805, by Gertrude E. Meredith, London, 1901).

Among the early English ancestors of the family were Robert de Amory, Lord of Bucknell 1257, Giles D'Amorie (later Amorie and Amory about 1550), Giles and Thomas Amory 1579, John Amory 1606, Thomas 1667, and John Emory who died in Somersetshire in 1657. At this time local records also show that members of apparently the same family were living in Essex and possibly a branch under the name of Emery in Kent.

The fact that the different members of the family of Somerset, Gloucester and Essex were of the same stock and closely related is indicated in the similarity of their arms with crests in two instances being the same.

According to the English records and authorities as listed hereon, the following arms were granted:

(1) Giles D'Amorie (Amory), 1592; Arms: Barry nebuly of six argent and gules, over all upon a bend sable three bezants or. Crest: out of a mural coronet or, a talbots azure eared or. (College of Arms; Robson's British Herald, 1830; Royal Crest Book, MacLaren, London 1883.)

(2) Emory als Amory—Amery, Essex 1634; Arms: Barry nebuly of six argent and gules, in chief three annulets gules. Crest: out of a mural coronet a demi-horse, or maned or collared gu, studded or. Motto: "Fedelis et Suavis" (College of Arms; The Visitation of Essex 1634, Harleian Society, Vol. 13; Edmondson's Complete Heraldry, London 1870; Royal Crest Book, London 1883).

(3) Amory-Emory, Somerset; Arms: Barry nebuly of six argent and gu, a bent az. Crest: out of a mural coronet or, a talbots head az eared of the first. (College of Arms, London; Burke, Descendants of Hugh Amory by Meredith, London 1901.)

(4) Emory of Somersetshire, died 1657; Arms: Barry of six, gu or, in chief three cinquefoils or. Crest: A demi-unicorn rampant and erased, gu, hoofed and armed or crined sa. (Descendants of Hugh Amory by Meredith 1901; Elvens Book of Crests; College of Arms, London; Royal Crest Book.)

Family arms—Amory—Amorye—Amorie—in window of St. Peter's Church or Cathedral in Exon. Devon., Vol. I (Carew's Scroll of Arms, 1588).

The two American branches of the family were first represented in this country by the emigration of Arthur Emory to the province of Maryland in 1665, direct ancestor of the Maryland Emorys and by Thomas Amory, ancestor of the Boston Amorys, who settled first about 1690 in South Carolina, a few years later moving to Boston, Mass.

Arthur Emory arrived in the province of Maryland from Somersetshire, England, in 1660, with his wife, Mary and two children. He received from Lord Baltimore, in 1667, several direct formal grants of land on the Choptank, Wye and Chester Rivers, in Talbot and Queen Anne's Counties (Liber 12, p. 61, Anno. 1668; Date of grant June 30, 1668). He married his second wife, Ann Smith, prior to 1671, a daughter of Robert Smith. He married the third time, Catherine Vanderfort, a daughter of Michel Paul Vanderfort, whose family emigrated from Dermont, Flanders, and was granted large estates about 1640 on the site of the present city of Brooklyn, New York.

Arthur Emory died in 1699 and by his second wife left two sons, Arthur, Jr. and John, by his third wife, Catherine, he left two sons, William and a second Arthur, and also a daughter, Ann. Catherine afterwards married Edmund Prior, and died, according to her will, in 1749. (Wills, deeds, grants, etc., Land office records in Annapolis, Liber X, folio 391 and copies Talbot County wills in Ann Arundel County Courthouse, Liber H, folio 269.)

Arthur Emory Jr., born 1666, was one of the earliest members of the first county court of Queen Anne's, 1708. He had a pew in Wye church and was a vestryman in St. Paul's parish in 1704. He died September 22, 1747, and lies buried at Ingleside, originally known as "Emory's Fortune," which was one of the earliest colonial estates of the Emory family. It is located near the present village of Queenstown, his tombstone shows that he had two wives, Anne died Nov. 10, 1721, and Jockline (Jacqueline) Littilen. His will (Arthur 1747) probated November 25th, 1747, shows he left the following sons and daughters: John Jr., Arthur III, Thomas, Gideon and James and also four daughters.

Thomas Emory was the father of Thomas Lane Emory of Baltimore and the "Woodridge" Emory branch, now of Baltimore County, are descendants of Gideon Emory. Gideon married Mary Marsh, daughter of Thomas Marsh 1716. He died 1784 leaving sons, Wm. Wilson, Gideon Jr., John and James.

Francois Guidon (Gideon), Cambrai, France, Sous Lieutenant au 46 Reg. de Ligne, buried Ashburton Churchyard, Devon, French prisoner of war, 1815, age 22. Page 185, Devon Notes & Queries, Vol. 2, 1903.

Thomas Lane Emory of "Warrington" was the ancestor of the Richard Emory family of Baltimore county, represented at this time by Emory Warfield, Henry M. and S. Davies, sons of the late Henry M. Warfield and his wife Anna Emory, also Mary and Isabel Emory, sisters of Daniel Grant Emory, who married a daughter of Alexander Fulton and left a son, Thomas Emory and a daughter, Letlia.

John Emory Senior, son of Arthur 1st, 1699, was Lord Baltimore's Deputy Surveyor and Receiver of Quit Rents in 1726 and in 1750-60 was one of the surveyors who represented Maryland in the survey of the boundary line between Maryland and Pennsylvania on the Chesapeake and Delaware Peninsula, which was afterwards prolonged by Messrs. Mason and Dixon in the famous Mason and Dixon line. He was a pew holder in Wye church in 1723. He received through his elder brother, Arthur, 1747, by deed of gift from his father in 1683, "Bachelor's Chance." The other Emory colonial estates at this time were "Ingleside," "Warrington," "Coursey on Wye," "Saint Paul" and "Brampton."

John Emory married Ann ———. He died in 1763 and his will probated December 23, 1763, shows he left the following sons: Charles The Elder, John, Thomas, James, William and Charles The Younger, and daughters, Elizabeth and Ann.

John Emory of "Brampton" later "Poplar Grove," son of John Emory surveyor 1763, was born about 1710. He married Margaret Marsh, a sister of Mary and Sarah, wives of Gideon Emory 1st and John Emory Jr., 1765, and daughter of Thomas Marsh, 1712, who was a direct descendant of Augustine Hermann, the famous Bohemian noblemen, Lord of Bohemia Manor, in Cecil County, Maryland. He died intestate about 1740, leaving his widow, Margaret (who later married David Register) and two sons, John and Thomas and a daughter Sarah (married Thomas Falcomer).

John Emory married Juliana Hawkins (first wife) December 14, 1758 (St. Luke's Parish Church, Church Hill, Maryland), and about this time added to his own his step-father's name "Register" to distinguish him from several other John Emorys of his day.

The grandsons of Arthur Junior, 1747, and his brother John, 1763, were represented in the Revolutionary War as officers by the following: Gideon Emory, 2nd Lieut. 5th Maryland Regt., Dec. 10, 1776; Richard Emory, Captain 5th Maryland Regt., Dec. 10, 1776, Brevet Major Oct. 4, 1777, Thomas Lane

Emory, 1st. Lieut., 4th Eastern Shore Bn., 1776, later Captain 5th Maryland Regt., John Register Emory, 1st Lieut. in James O'Bryon's Company, 20th Bn., Maryland Militia, date of commission Jan. 3, 1776, he saw active service against Lord Dunmore and later took part in the battle of Long Island (Maryland Muster Rolls in the Revolution, 1775-83, Vol. 18, Archives of Maryland; McSherry's History of Maryland, 1850; Historical Register of Officers of the Continental Army, by Francis B. Heitman, 1914).

John Register Emory was a member of the Queen Anne's County Board of Justices of the Peace, in 1777. He inherited from his father "Poplar Grove" in Queen Anne's County, originally known as "Brampton." In addition to "Brampton" the estate was at that time made up of "Conquest," "Corsica" and "Cintra" (Cintra, a town in Portugal, which up to about 1640 had been a dependency of Spain), the total consisting of approximately two thousand acres, covering all of that section known as Spaniards Neck at the junction of the Corsica and Chester rivers. "Poplar Grove" is one of the very few colonial estates in America which has been continuously owned by the same family and inherited from generation to generation up to the present time. It is the only one now remaining in possession of the Emorys in Maryland. The original section of the brick manor house was built about 1700 according to tradition and the formal terraced gardens of boxwood on the rear lawn are known to be the oldest gardens in this country.

Robert Emory, a son of John Register Emory by his first wife, married Frances Thomas, daughter of Tristram and Ann Thomas of Wye Neck. Their son was John Emory, later the noted bishop of the M. E. Church, founder of Emory University in Georgia, etc, Bishop Emory's son, Robert 2nd, was for many years president of Dickinson College. With the exception of Bishop Emory the Emorys from the earliest times have been associated with the history of the Anglican and afterwards the Protestant Episcopal Church. John Register Emory's second wife was Ann Costin, to whom he was married Nov. 2, 1765. He died in 1790, his wife died June 4, 1802. They left the following children: John Emory, born Dec. 22, 1766; Margaret Emory, born Aug. 11, 1768; Ann Emory, born Sept. 25, 1770; Richard, born Feb. 4, 1773; Elizabeth, born May 17, 1777; William, born 1780, and Thomas, born March 24, 1782. Thomas Emory, later known as General Thomas Emory, inherited "Poplar Grove" from his father. He married June 13, 1805, Anna Maria Hemsley, born March 5, 1787, daughter of William Hemsley of "Cloverfields," who served in the Continental Congress 1782-3, was colonel of a battalion from the county which stamped out a Tory insurrection and later was active in collecting supplies for the Continental Army. His mother was Anna Maria Tilghman, daughter of Richard Tilghman of "The Hermitage" and Anna Maria Lloyd of "Wye."

General Thomas Emory was a member of the Maryland House of Delegates, the State Senate and Executive Council of the governor under the old Constitution. He was an officer in the war of 1812, serving as a major in the 9th Cavalry District and took active part in the defence of Queenstown against the attack of the British. He was also first president of the Eastern Shore Railroad and one of the Commissioners to negotiate an internal loan for the state of Maryland, visiting England for that purpose in 1838.

Among other Emorys who served as officers in the war of 1812 were John M. G. Emory, Captain Smith's Co., 4th Maryland Regt., and John Emory, Captain in the 38th Regt. (British Invasion of Maryland 1812-15 by Wm. M. Marine 1913).

General Thomas Emory and Anna Maria Hemsley had the following children:

Ann, born March 24, 1806, married Dr. Wm. H. Thomas of Easton.

General Wm. Hemsley Emory, a graduate of West Point, was commissioned a second Lieut. in the U. S. Army 1831, and later promoted to Major General in 1865. He had extensive active service in the Mexican and Civil Wars and was decorated for gallantry in the battles of San Pasqual 1846, and San Gabriel 1747. His wife, Matilda Bache, was a great granddaughter of Benjamin Franklin and granddaughter of Alexander Dallas, Secretary of War and also of the Treasury 1814-1818. General Emory died Dec. 1, 1887, leaving the following children: Campbell Dallas, Thomas, George and William Hemsley 2nd, and daughters Sarah and Victoria. Campbell Dallas graduated from West Point in 1856 and as Lieut. Col. of the U. S. was decorated in front of Petersburg, Virginia. His wife was Clara Tilton, daughter of Col. Tilton. He died March 11, 1878. William Hemsley 2nd was born Dec. 17, 1846. He graduated from the Naval Academy in 1866 and on Nov. 5, 1906, he was promoted to Rear Admiral, U. S. Navy. Admiral Emory had a distinguished career and was in command of the cutter " Bear " during the famous Greely Relief Expedition in Alaska and for several years was Naval Attache at the American Embassy in London. Admiral Emory married Blanche Willis. He died July 14, 1917, and left his widow and a son, Wm. Hemsley 3rd, and daughters Matilda Hemsley and Blanche Willis.

Thomas Alexander, who married Miss Winder, died leaving a son, Levin Winder Emory, a daughter Marianna, who married Judge John M. Robinson, Chief Justice of the Md. Court of Appeals. Judge Robinson died leaving a son Ralph Robinson of Baltimore and daughters Alice and Marianna, the latter married Admiral Fullam, U. S. N. Levin Winder Emory died some years ago and lies buried at "Waverly."

John Register 2nd, inherited "Poplar Grove" from his father, General Thomas Emory. He married Alice Grey Bourke, a daughter of Edward Grey Bourke and Mary Bordely Cox. Edward Grey Bourke, born 1804, was a son of Wm. Young Bourke and Eliza Grey, of Delaware. Her brother Andrew married Miss Rogers, daughter of the famous Commander Rogers of the U. S. Navy. Col. John Register Emory 2nd, of "Poplar Grove," was commissioned a 2nd Lieut., 6th Inf., U. S. Army, and saw active service during the Seminole War in Florida (Historical Register, U. S. Army, 1903). He resigned from the service several years prior to the Civil War in order to take over the active management of the large estate left to him by his father. He was one of the largest land and slave owners of his time in Maryland, he died March 29, 1880, and lies buried in the family graveyard at "Poplar Grove." He left the following children: Edward Bourke, who inherited "Poplar Grove." He married Henrietta Tilghman, daughter of Lloyd Tilghman and died leaving his widow and sons, Lloyd Tilghman and Edward Bourke and a daughter Henrietta.

John Register Emory 3rd, born in 1850, married Anna Gibson, daughter of Woolman Gibson, of "Woodlawn," and a sister of the late U. S. Senator Charles H. Gibson, Col. W. H. Gibson and Capt. S. H. Gibson, U. S. Marine Corps. Among the ancestors of Woolman Gibson were Jonathan and Woolman Gibson of John, officers of the 4th Eastern Shore Bn., of the Continental Army. John Register Emory 3rd died January 1925 and with his wife Anna lies buried in the cemetery at Centreville. Their children are Major John Register Emory 4th, U. S. Army (resigned 1921), born June 16, 1883, and Major Woolman Gibson Emory, U. S. Marine Corps, born July 19, 1885.

Anna Hemsley, married Senator Wm. Turpin of "Locust Hill," Queen Anne's County, Maryland. She died in 1885 leaving the following children: Commander Walter S. Turpin, U. S. Navy, who died in 1915, John Register Emory Turpin, William Turpin, Alice Turpin, Anna Turpin and Isabel Turpin.

Alice Grey married Harry Wilmer, who died leaving his widow and sons, Dr. Harry Bond Wilmer, Peregrin, Van Bibber and a daughter Phoebe.

Blanchard, born Nov. 22, 1831, married Mary Bourke. He died leaving the following sons: Frederick, who was for many years director of the Consular Service of the State Department in Washington, Edmund, Blanchard Jr., of "Bloomfield," Tilghman, and daughters Isabelle and Mary.

Blanchard Emory, Jr., married Mary Kerr, daughter of the Rev. David Kerr of "Foxley Hall," they left the following children: Edward B. of Blanchard, Allan and Blanchard 3rd.

Frederick, mentioned above, was the Emory genealogist and the author of the early history of the Emory family, he married and died leaving no children.

Isabelle and Mary married brothers, George and Tilghman Davidson.

Herewith you'll receive an Assortment for 150 Tons Barr Iron which if made in proportion to the Quantity given, of each size, will I Believe in general answer for this Market, tho as the American Iron is confin'd to this Port only & not to be sent more than ten miles from it either by Water or Land there is no judging for a Certainty without experience.

In this Assortment the Barrs need not be made to any particular Length, but great Care must be taken to make the Iron quite sound & to draw the Flatts of an exact Breadth & Thickness from End to End & to Close the Ends so as not to appear Ragged; The same Care must likewise be taken to draw the Squares very true and Even and of an Exact Size from End to End and not small in one part, and Gouty in another as all that has hitherto come for America has been which is a great detriment to the Sale of it—

I have likewise put down a Memorandm for 50 Tons Thick or Lyre Iron, there are a great many more sizes, but these are the most runing, and to give them a great many Sizes at first, will in my opinion be only puzzling of them; In making this Iron they must be extreamly exact both as to Breadth, Thickness & the Length of the Bars or will not answer the purpose It must likewise be quite sound & drawn Exactly true & They had better never attempt the makeing it, unless they Resolve to make it in every Respect agreeable to the direction given—

In relation to the Insurance I can say no more than I have already said and prove'd Except this that there was certainly a Protest made by the master & mate & Regularly but as Mr Carrington observes was lost in the office or Mislaid that it was made, the Master is still liveing to prove the same.

I find I shall be shuffled out of an adequate Satisfaction for my Loss and as I have thrown too much good money after the matter already it is not now worth my while to throw more. I find Insurers ready to take my money but very backward to do Justice in case of Loss tho I have often insure'd on that vessell it was the first Loss I claimed tho met with others do thereon as you will

The Scarcety of Tobacco has hitherto prevent'd the Ship Elisabeth, Scougal, from Sailing hence with my Pigg Iron w^{ch} I hope shee will soon. I have another parcell on Board a Ship of M^{r} Creagh in Putuxen of w^{ch} I will Run the Risk without Insureance but may come Safe in due time to your hands.

As I did not hear from you by Alden have reason to believe Falkners Bill on Mess^{rs} Cooper & C^{o} in Bristol for £100 is paid that being remited you in December last.

I am likewise in hopes that my other Bills remited Since are & will be good. And as my ocations Requir'd have drawn on you the Following Bills Viz—on the 30th of August To Charles Lord Baltimore thirty Pounds Ster. To Nicholas Maccubbin fourteen Pounds Ster. And on the Sixth Instant To M^{r} Buchanan for Twenty Two Pounds Ten Shil Ster. and to Cha^{s} Carroll Esq^{r} for Twelve pounds nine Shil w^{ch} Bills I desire you will pay & charge to my Acc^{tt}.

The Good's I wrote for on the Credit of Pigg Iron to be shiped but being as above detained longer than reasonable out of Money for the same, shall willingly make you Satisfaction by allowing Common Intrest, for by no means would I have my Bills unpaid.

This years Crop of Tobacco will in my opinion be short of the last, w^{ch} with our Law and the Inclination to sell in the Country; will render Loading Ships precarious.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE SOCIETY.

March 12th, 1928.—The regular meeting of the Society was held to-night at its rooms, with the President in the Chair.

The following persons, previously nominated, were elected to Active Membership:

Mr. James D. Garrett,
Mr. Oscar G. Levy,
Mr. R. H. McCleave,
Mr. Aquilla Brown Hanson,
Mr. J. P. W. McNeal,
Mr. J. Munroe Holland,
Mr. John Franklin Davies,
Mr. H. Irvine Keyser, 2nd,
Mr. Tamor H. Steuart,
Mr. Leander McCormick-Goodhart;

and to Associate Membership:

Mrs. A. A. Davis,
Miss Mary E. Lazenby,
Mr. J. Donnell Tilghman.

The President then introduced to the Society, Mr. James E. Hancock, who had been elected to the office of Corresponding Secretary.

The Secretary read a letter from Mrs. Mary C. Oursler asking the Society to endorse a Bill, which has been introduced in the House, "Authorizing and directing the Director of the Census to publish names of the heads of the families as returned by each Federal Census from 1800 to 1840, inclusive."

The following death was reported from among our members: Mr. John Parker, on October 31st, 1927.

The speaker of the evening, Mr. Stanley G. Remington, was then introduced, and he recited a number of humorous poems.

April 9th, 1928.—The regular meeting of the Society was held to-night, with the President in the Chair.

A list of the donations made to the Library and Gallery was read. Mr. Dielman gave a brief account of the manuscripts presented by Mrs. Ridgley; and also of the collection of manuscripts presented by Mrs. M. S. Lebey, together with a silver cup awarded to John H. Hewitt in a short-story contest held by the Baltimore Saturday Visitor.

Mr. Dielman presented the following resolution:

"Resolved, that a special acknowledgment be made by the Maryland Historical Society, to Mrs. M. S. Lebey of Savannah, Georgia, and Mrs. E. R. Poole of Seat Pleasants, Maryland, expressing its appreciation and thanks for the interesting collection of manuscripts and the silver cup awarded to John H. Hewitt in a short-story contest held by the Baltimore Saturday Visitor."

The following persons, previously nominated, were elected to Active Membership:

Mr. Charles Carroll, Mrs. Norris C. Leonard,
Dr. J. Ben Robinson, Mrs. Ralph Foxhall;

and to Associate Membership:

Miss Winifred Lovering Holman, Mr. Orra E. Monnette.
Mrs. Joseph R. Bodine (Eva Budd).

The following deaths were reported from among our members: Miss Grace Winchester Fisher, March 25th, 1928; Mr. W. McHenry Keyser, March 30th, 1928.

The President reported that a committee had been appointed by the Council to take up the matter with the Governor concerning the placing of a tablet to Thomas Johnson in the Old Senate Chamber. This committee reported after conference with the Governor that the tablet would not be placed inside the Old Senate Chamber (the opinion of the Council being that this tablet, or any other tablet, should not be placed in the Old Senate Chamber) but in an appropriate position outside of the door of same.

Dr. Marcus Benjamin, the speaker of the evening, was then introduced. He read a paper entitled "New York During the Revolution."

May 14th, 1928.—The regular meeting of the Society was held to-night, with the President in the Chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

It was stated that the committee appointed to place the Governor Thomas Johnson Tablet in the State House had been successful. It was shown by the report of the committee that the tablet had been placed, with the coöperation of Governor Ritchie, in the corridor beside the entrance to the Senate Chamber, and that other tablets had been removed or were about to be removed from the Senate Chamber. President Harris stated that the Society owed its thanks to the committee and the Governor for its action in the matter.

A manuscript on vellum, being the Indictment and Acquittal of Frederick Lord Baltimore, was presented to the Society by Lawrence C. Wroth. Mr. Wroth said that he was enabled to present this manuscript through the interest of Mr. Lathrop C. Harper of New York City, who charged him nothing for the manuscript when he found that it was for the Maryland Historical Society. Mr. Lathrop had requested that the presentation be not made in his name.

It was "Resolved, That the thanks of the Society be extended to Mr. Lawrence C. Wroth for the exceedingly interesting and valuable document, and that the proper appreciation of the gift be conveyed to Mr. Lathrop C. Harper."

The following persons were elected to Active Membership:

Miss Mary E. Brown,
Miss Margaret L. Hirschman,
Mrs. Walter Wickes,
Dr. Walter Wickes,
Mr. Sifford Pearre,
Mr. R. McGill Mackall,
Mr. August Mencken,
Mr. Walter D. Barnes,
Mr. Philip C. Friese;

and to Associate Membership:

Mrs. Edith Roberts Ramsberg,
Rev. William Weir Gilliss,
Mr. Charles S. Shepherd.

It was stated that the Civil War Library of the late J. Appleton Wilson, sometime Corresponding Secretary of this Society, had been presented to the Society by the widow and daughter of Mr. Wilson. It was said that this library contained probably the most complete collection of material concerning the Battle of Gettysburg, as Mr. Wilson was the recognized authority on this subject. It was "Resolved, That the appreciation and thanks of the Maryland Historical Society be extended to Mrs. J. Appleton Wilson and Miss Virginia Appleton Wilson for the gift of this library."

The following death was reported among our members: Mrs. Samuel (Edith Benson) Helfrich, on April 24th, 1928.

Mr. Thomas Foley Hisky made the following suggestion:

"That the Maryland Historical Society resolve to obtain, whenever possible, the full maiden name of a married lady, when she is nominated for membership in the Society. This will make our records more complete."

The speaker of the evening was then introduced, Mr. Jesse

Lee Bennett, who read a paper entitled "The Cavalier Tradition and Heritage."

May 25th, 1928.—A special meeting of this Society was held to-night. In the absence of the President, Vice-President Thom presided.

The Society had as its guest the Eastern Shore Society of Baltimore City.

It was announced that the only formal business would be the election of members. The following persons, having been previously nominated, were elected to Active Membership:

Mrs. Henry T. Collenberg,
Miss Catherine Valentine,
Miss Adelphine Hall,
Dr. Esther M. Dole,
Mr. John G. Rouse,
Mr. George Monroe Englar;
Mr. William Treanor Brewer,
Mrs. Frank Gordon (Katherine Waters) Emondson,

and to Associate Membership:

Mrs. M. V. Ream,
Mrs. F. R. (Sarah T.) Dupuy.

Mr. Thom welcomed the members of the Eastern Shore Society of Baltimore City and spoke of the honor it was for the Maryland Historical Society to have them as its guests. He then introduced Mr. James U. Dennis, President of the Eastern Shore Society, who on behalf of his Society, spoke in appreciation of this privilege and courtesy extended by the Maryland Historical Society. Mr. Dennis gave a brief history of the organization of the Eastern Shore Society.

Mr. George L. Radcliffe, Chairman of the Historical Essay Contest of the Eastern Shore Society, introduced the winners of the contest and presented to each a prize of twenty dollars in gold. The Eastern Shore prize was won by Mr. Bennett Philips, who was presented with a pair of gold cuff links, in addition to twenty dollars in gold.

Vice-President Thom gave a brief account of the various historical exhibitions in the possession of the Society and invited the guests to view the same.

Music was furnished during the evening by the Eastern Shore Society.

October 8th, 1928.—The regular meeting of the Society was held to-night, with the President in the Chair.

It was announced that the Endowment Fund had been increased $5,000.00 by a bequest from the late Mrs. Caroline J. Lytle, and by a donation of $100.00 from Raphael Semmes.

Mr. Dielman reported for the Library Committee the purchase of several very valuable and interesting books, including a manuscript copy of the Constitution and By-Laws of the Association of Maryland Volunteers in the Mexican War; Votes & Proceedings of the Council of Maryland, for 1752-1761, etc. It was stated that among the papers of the late Henry F. Thompson, which have been presented to the Society by H. Oliver Thompson, was found an unpublished manuscript of the "History of the Colonial Clergy in Maryland."

The following deaths were reported from among our membership:

Dr. Martin F. Sloan,	Cleveland P. Manning,
John E. Beatty,	Griffin C. Callahan,
Dr. Wm. Hewson Baltzell,	Bishop Luther B. Wilson,
Henry S. Dulaney,	Prof. Harry F. Covington,
Eugene Levering,	John B. Thomas,
Robert Crain,	Archibald H. Taylor,
Edwin Saunders Rodgers,	Townsend Scott.

Dr. John R. Oliver was then introduced, and gave a most interesting talk on "Dr. John Crawford (1780-1820) and the Introduction of Vaccination in Maryland."
